

The Greatest Class Ever, Part 1, Addendum - Cathy Avery

I didn't really do justice to Cathy Avery's role in the demonstration in September 1967. She and Gus Pascual were cited in the Telegraph Herald article as being students who tried to convince the protesters to return to class. Here are a couple of photos showing her involvement. The first is from TH Media of her addressing a group of protesters (with Bruce Brillhart's face in the crowd). The second is from Cathy's Facebook page exhibiting her most excellent cheerleading skills doing a "eagle split" jump at Central School with the protesters. Both great photos.

A scene from Monday's demonstration at Central in Dubuque.
