Introducing Dr. Sahr Conway-Lanz, the Collections Manager for the PMC Museum

Dr. Sahr Conway-Lanz was appointed the new collections manager for the PMC Museum in July 2019. He is also a visiting scholar in the Widener University history department. Before coming to Widener, Sahr worked as a historian in the Manuscript Division of the Library of Congress; where he curated manuscript collections including those concerning military history, such as the papers of Generals John Pershing and George Patton. At the Library of Congress, Sahr co-curated the 2018-2019 exhibit on the United States' involvement in World War I. Sahr has also worked as an archivist at the Yale University Library and the National Archives and Records Administration.

Dr. Jennifer Wyse introduces PMC into the Sociology Curriculum

This past fall, Widener University students who were enrolled in Dr. Jennifer Wyse's Introduction to Sociology course were introduced to the PMC Museum. Hannah Specht '23, a Widener University nursing major and current ROTC cadet took Dr. Wyse's course and visited the PMC Museum for the first time. Specht reflects, "As a freshman in Widener's Reserve Officer Training Program, learning about the strong military presence that gave the university its start gave me a strong sense of pride in choosing Widener as the university where I will complete my ROTC training." Specht concluded that she found the course valuable because she learned about the honor, valor, and integrity of Pennsylvania Military College and that she aspires to be an officer like those who attended PMC.

PMC and World War I

Dr. Rachel Batch also used the PMC museum for her history course on America between the world wars. Dr. Sahr Conway-Lanz, a scholar-in-residence at Widener, joined the course to discuss his work with the Woodrow Wilson Presidential Library Museum. Students in the course visited the PMC Museum and were encouraged to view the exhibits, particularly, the World War I exhibit.

Dr. Batch thought the museum was helpful in teaching students to think critically about Woodrow Wilson's presidency and the First World War.

PMC Museum Updates

World War II: PMC Men Who Served

Past Perfect Museum Software

Early this year, the museum began using PastPerfect software to catalog and manage information about its artifact collection. PastPerfect is a commercial database program widely employed by museums around the country. This system will allow the PMC Museum to more easily catalogue the growing number of artifacts in its collection and describe each item with a more detailed description. PastPerfect also has the capability to facilitate the creation of virtual exhibits and an online public catalog.

Continuing Our Tradition

For the past several years, the Dauntless Battalion Awards Ceremony, in conjunction with the PMC Museum, has included two awards that PMC alumni will remember. This year, Michael Salloum was the recipient of the William J. Wolfgram Award, as the most soldierly cadet. The recipient of the Cecil B.

DeMille Award was Steven Von Kessel for exceeding expectations as a cadet.

During this year's commissioning ceremony, the Dauntless Battalion recognized its lineage and the history of PMC. Although the sheathing of the saber, signifying the end of the year was performed virtually, cadets Cardon A. Furry and Joseph D. Bittner received the sabers, continuing a long tradition.
