Editor's Observations

by Kitty Erway

Prejudice is an ugly word. There is evidence of this peculiar emotion all around us: stores, restaurants, business organizations, busses, and even in homes, churches, and schools.

Why do people have prejudices? If that question could really be answered, a solution for it would be in the making. One possible answer is that prejudice is inherited from parents, environment, or ignorance.

Let us take for example prejudice in school. If a person dresses extremely poor, he may be made fun of and left out of crowd activities. Some students may feel superior to fellow classmates because they are brighter, better looking, or better dressed.

If a Negro should enroll at Lowrey, would he be judged upon qualities rather than the color of his color of his skin? I doubt it.

To refer back to an oft-used cliché, "All men are created equal." Americans do not have the complete understanding and compassion, or the time to look on the inside instead of the outside. There is no magic cure-all for this ailment. It will continue indefinitely, no matter how hard the underdog fights. Violence is unacceptable in our society, but is not violence inevitable if prejudice remains?

The Thunderbird Styling Contest has ended and all contestants from Lowrey have submitted their entries. Now comes a period of judging before the winners are announced. More about the contest later.

The Fizz-Chem Club took a trip to the University of Michigan on Saturday, April 18.

The showcase outside the art room has been changed again. It's beautiful! Just down the hall, across from the electronics room, another showcase is filled with the prize winning entries in the Michigan Industrial Education Contest. Our boys did some outstanding work. Congratulations.

Elections will soon be underway. All candidates should be sure to read the campaign rules, and follow them.

The Annual is finished and at the printers. It will be passed out about a week before school ends.

Good luck to all the new cheerleaders!

Welcome to the student teachers in the building—Good Luck to you, also!

Lowrey Sweeps District Forensic Contest

Lowrey's forensic team scored an impressive victory in the District Forensic Contest on April 15. Competing against teams from Cherry Hill, Hamtramck, Romulus, and Willow Run, Lowrey attained the highest number of points in speech competition. Seven members of Lowrey's ten member team gained ratings of first, second, or third place.

The first phase of the contest consisted of interpretive reading. The students who participated in readings had to be able to read orally, five serious selections lasting from five to eight and one half minutes. It was not until about fifteen minutes before this portion of the contest began that the students knew which single selection they were to read. Bob Scheer, 12A-9, and Sandy Coulson, 12A-2, gained the first points for Lowrey with second and third places interpretive reading respectively.

The next area of the forensic contest was humorous reading. Humorous readers had to read orally a humorous selection lasting from five to eight and one half minutes. Peter Bill, 12A-1, won second place with a reading about an irritating ten year old boy.

Next came declamation speech. In declamation, the speakers must declaim an original oration lasting from five to eight and one half minutes. Jan Wismuller, 10A-13, was awarded first place for Broken Windows. This speech was originally written and declaimed by Mr. Irwin's fiancée who gained national recognition for it.

Oratory was the next phase of the forensic debate. In this phase they had to compose an original speech on a modern national problem and deliver it in such a way that it would stimulate the audience to action. Anita Day, 11A-3, was awarded first place and Lowrey had now accumulated enough points to be assured of winning the contest.

Jan Ting 10A-12, and Ed Keeton, 12A-5, rounded out the winner's list with their extemporaneous speeches. Extempore speakers must deliver a speech dealing with a controversial problem on a national, or world-wide scale. The speech must last from five to eight and one-half minutes, and the speakers are given only one hour of speech preparation before delivery. Jan placed first and Ed placed second.

When Mr. Irwin was asked his opinion about the outcome of the tournament, his reply was: "I was very proud of all the members on our forensic team. Every single one of them worked hard and performed well. It is a good feeling to experience a winning effort. The thrill of victory in this contest is wonderful, especially since this is only our school's first year in speech activities. It is a greater feeling to me, however, to know that we were able to participate in scholastic competition with other senior high schools. The most important aspect of this is a supreme educational value. The benefits to the individual competitor cannot be underestimated. It is an experience that broadens one's intellectual horizons; that increases one's capacity for self-expression; and it is an experience that gives a student tremendous opportunity for personal growth. The educational benefits gained through participation are by far the most important rewards in extra-curricular speech activities. This is why I am proud of our entire team."

The students who achieved first and second ratings will represent Lowrey in the Regional Forensic Tournament for the challenge of state speech competition. First place winners have already been awarded with Webster dictionaries with their names engraved in gold by the Detroit News. Second place winners will receive a Certificate of Merit from the University of Michigan.

Lowrey's student body should be proud that their first forensic team become district champions, and we should all encourage our team to do well in the state competition.

Majorette Clinic To Be Conducted

The Lowrey majorette training clinic to prepare new girls to take the place of the three seniors graduating will begin the last week of April. A specific date will be announced in a later bulletin. All interested sophomore and junior girls are invited to attend the instruction sessions. No previous experience is necessary.

Qualifications for a majorette are similar to the code of the cheerleaders. Also, a "C" average must be obtained by all girls.

The "1963-64" majorettes will be taking part in the annual Memorial Day Parade on Saturday, May 30. This is the last and one of the biggest events of the year.

More News On Careers

DO YOU WANT TO BE A STENOGRAPHER?

Girls who choose a career in stenography and become qualified can be sure that there will be a demand for their services in the growing business world of today. There is always a demand for good stenographers and secretaries.

Stenographers are an important part of a team that makes it possible to move products efficiently from the factories to people. Along with other office people they help to maintain sufficient experience by training until on-the-job experience has been obtained. A person upgraded to a senior stenographic position which gives increased responsibilities and duties. Some senior stenographers, due to special experience, are called technical stenographers. Special training will always be an asset to you for a better position.

Secretaries differ from stenographers mainly in the amount of responsibilities which are given to them. Secretaries often have to handle much of the general correspondence on their own. In addition, they often interview visitors, make appointments, and act as an office manager, seeing that the office operates smoothly.

The way to enter the occupation of stenography is to complete a business course in high school, go to junior college or a business school, and then apply for a job. Some stenographers start out by working at a job and receive training and experience as they go along.

You may have asked yourself many times, "Do I have the qualities to become a good stenographer?" Here are some of the qualities you must have to become a stenographer:

1. You must have the ability to type well with accuracy, speed and neatness.
2. You must have a thorough knowledge of the English language.
3. You must have the ability to read rapidly.
4. You must be able to work under pressure.
5. Your neatness in appearance is always important.

Of course, there is not a set plan or time table that will guarantee you employment. There are, however, these certain things which have been mentioned above that can help you reach your goal as quickly as possible.

Band News

Lowrey's Senior High Concert Band and dance band, directed by Mr. Keranen, held an assembly on Thursday, April 9, second hour in the Lowrey gym for all tenth, eleventh, and twelfth grade students.

The concert band played Band Boosters March by William Johnson, Cathedral Canyon by Eric Hanson, and selections from Porgy and Bess by George Gershwin. David Dobratka, 11A, Darryl Csicsila, 11A, Kenneth Fabian, 12A, Dennis Leslie, 11A, and Mark McFarlane 11A, played solo parts. Syncopated Clock by Leroy Anderson featured the percussion section of the band. Malagaena by Ernesto Lecuona, Shortnin' Bread by Louis Marini, and Blues in the Band by Del Baroni featured Dan Shortridge on the drums. The stage band played Five Foot Two by Churk Bradford, Sunny Side of the Street by Ralph Flanagan, and Little Brown Mombo by Ralph Flanagan.

Future Teachers

Future Teacher members took a trip to Wayne State University on Tuesday, April 7.

They were shown the various libraries, the girls' dormitory, the art building and the education building among others.

After touring the campus, a professor in the education department gave a short talk on the teaching profession. It was humorous as well as informative.

Their trip ended just in time to catch a rain storm on the way home.

Everyone had a nice time and enjoyed seeing Wayne State University.

Mr. Irwin who narrated the program said, "I think the stage band was the most popular with the students." Mr. Keranen commented, "This was one of the best assemblies we have had in a long time."

Co-op Spotlight

Initiating our Co-op spotlight is Carren Layden, 12A-5. Carren hails from District 7 and is on a commercial course. She also maintains a C plus average here at Lowrey.

Carren is employed as a secretary-receptionist by the Woodland Medical Center in Detroit and makes a good hourly wage for a co-op student. Some of her duties at the Center include typing, filing, book-keeping, and general office work. She uses several office machines and soon will learn use of IBM machines.

Carren enjoys the work a great deal and gets along well with her employer and fellow employees. "I like the coffee breaks most of all" was one of Carren's comments. You could say she is "learning while earning."

Carren also plans to continue working at the Medical Center after graduation.

Jr. High Track Begins

Lowrey's Junior High Track Team had its first practice of the spring on Monday, April 6.

According to Coach Currie, "If enthusiasm means anything, we should win a few meets this year." Coach Currie is counting heavily on Dennis Gusick and Ali Metaj for the low hurdles.

The following is the Lowrey Junior High track Schedule:

April 29, Wednesday, Woodworth, Salina at Lowrey.

May 6, Wednesday, Salina, Maples at Lowrey.

May 13, Wednesday, Maples, Woodworth at Lowrey.

May 20, Wednesday, Edison, Lowrey at Lowrey.

May 27, Wednesday, Lowrey, Salina at Woodworth.

THE WORLD OF ART

What's an artist's life like? Beards, berets, and icy garrets to starve in? Wrong! Today's professional artist is creative, but conscientious; daring but disciplined—a respected person, deeply engaged in his practice of an exciting cultivated field.

The first step into the art profession is to learn by doing art. Take any basic drawing, design and art history courses that your school or community offers. Do not even think of going into a particular specialized field until much, much later. Supplement formal training with weekend sketching expeditions. Expose yourself to all styles and periods with an open mind. And read, read, read for insight.

Perhaps you are wondering, "Who needs artists?" Artists are always in demand to an industrial firm, advertising agencies, an art service center, book, magazine and newspaper publishers, as well as television producers.

The first job of a hopeful artist often involves menial pasteup tasks. But however small the job, the young artist will need all the experience possible to be able to express his creativity later on.

What is a professional artist? The line between fine and commercial art has seemed to have vanished. Much of the art in today's magazines and advertising material is very "fine-commercial" art, capable of showing beauty as well as selling products. One prime example of an established professional artist is Ben Shahn, whose powerful work appears in many museums, but is commercial because it often illustrates books, posters and record jackets.

The demand for artists who meet certain standards exceeds supply, so today's young artist with artistic aspirations may expect to live in a garret, but it will probably be an air-conditioned duplex garret, well furnished.

Interesting Hobbies Wanted

Do you have an unusual or interesting hobby, or do you know someone attending Lowrey that has one? If you do, the Lowrey Light would like to know about it. To get your story in the next paper, contact Lana Presley, 10A 10, of Light staff, and she will give you the necessary data. Don't hesitate—the Lowrey Light is looking for students with unusual hobbies!!

New Student Teacher

A new student teacher has been added to Mr. Falvo's English classes. Mr. McPhee, is in his senior year at Wayne State University and he is in the final process of becoming a high school English teacher.

Mr. McPhee began to study at Wayne State in 1952, but the Korean War interfered and he went into the army where he was a member of the foreign service. He served as a translator of German and Dutch for the United States. He is able to speak both languages fluently.

Mr. McPhee is married and has

Donut Sales Success

Have you been in the cafeteria in the morning lately?

Through the organization of the Student Council, students are able to buy donuts and milk in the morning before homeroom.

Thursday, April 16, and Friday, April 17, there was a complete sellout on donuts. Over a hundred students bought donuts each day.

Mr. Boatwright would like to congratulate all of the students who took part for their cooperation with the Student Council members in charge.

This policy will continue as long as there are enough students to make it worthwhile.

two children. Sunday school teaching is what influenced him in becoming a teacher. He returned to Wayne and acquired four majors: English, humanities, German and economics.

When asked to comment on how he feels about teaching at Lowrey, Mr. McPhee replied, "I enjoy teaching at Lowrey for I find the student body to be most receptive."

Stop, Look and Clean

Where are the manners of today's youth? Quite often we hear the criticism of teenagers and resent it. Yet if one should walk into the cafeteria after either of the lunch hours, they would see what these people are critical of. The cafeteria looks like a pig sty! There are trays and garbage all over the tables and milk cartons and ice-cream wrappers on the floor. Lowrey is our school and each one of us should do our best to make the school as nice as possible.

Even if you do not feel any loyalty to your school, you should at least observe the "golden rule." Not many people would like to eat in the midst of someone else's garbage, and it really does not take very long to take the trays and garbage to the proper receptacles.

Because of our large special education department, there are often many important civic leaders and interested adults in our school. These people, when spending the day, often eat in our cafeteria and see the slovenly manner in which we leave it. Lowrey has a good reputation now, but if we continue to let the cafeteria degrade the school, we will not have any of our good reputation left. If you see any garbage left around by some of the irresponsible people in the school, please clean it up and keep building our good reputation.

Spring Concert

Lowrey's Concert Band and Chorus, under the direction of Mr. Keranen and Mr. Coedy, will present a spring concert at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, May 7, in the Lowrey gym. The price of the tickets will be 50 cents for adults and 25 cents for students with an activity book.

One of the highlights of the Concert will be "Set Down Servant" soloists are former winners of the Negro spiritual, featuring two Interlochen Music Scholarship.

There will also be three special numbers done by the Lowrey Robed Choir. They are "Steal Away" "Drink To Me Only" and "Barcarolle." Some other selections done by the Chorus and Robed Choir will be "Oklahoma", "Moon River", "Song of Love", and "Me and My Shadow".

The accompanist for the Chorus and Choir will be Phyllis Anstedt Stamonan.

The Concert Band will play "Coats of Arms" by George Kenny, "Folk Song Suite" by Vaughn Williams, "Finlandia" by Jean Sibelius, "Student Prince" by Sigmond Romberg, and "Ballad for Trombones" by Milton L. Bush. Lee Campbell will play a solo trombone part. Other selections will include Dix-Parade of the Charioteers by Mikeland Festival by Bernard Geen, os Rozsa, Fandango by Frank Perkins, and Colorama by Peter DeRose. Come on out and enjoy the music!

GUESS WHO?

Do you recognize this sophomore by her smile? She participates in school activities, such as an officer of her class, member of the Latin Club and Nurses Club. If by these clues and her picture you are still not able to guess who she is, below are the rest of the clues.

First hour she is in Mr. Bodary's English class doing her assignment.

Second hour, she is trying to understand the long terms being explained to her on algebra.

Third hour, she is moving her fingers rapidly over the keyboard, hurrying to finish her typing lesson.

Fourth hour, she is in chemistry. Fifth hour, she is in lunch, keeping an eye on a certain boy.

Sixth hour, she is speaking Latin.

Seventh hour, she is studying and trying to do most of her homework.

Can you guess who she is now? Well if you are not able to, the answer is on page four.

Sports Spotlight

In this issue of the Lowrey Light our sports spotlight is focused on Bradley St. Andrew, 11A-8, captain of the track team. He has also won a varsity letter in football.

Bradley is a resident of District 7 and maintains a C average in a general course. When Brad graduates from high school he plans to attend H.F.C.C. and major in electronics. Bradley's favorite hobbies are sports and music.

Brad has been the top point getter for the track team. He runs in the 100 yard dash, the 220 yard dash, the broad jump, and is anchor man on the relay team.

When asked what he thought of this year's chances in track, Bradley replied, "We have too many sophomores who lack experience, but we could take the league meet if every one works hard."

New Cheerleaders Chosen

year. This will even out the squad to four junior and four senior girls.

Five senior girls will be leaving the squad in June of this year. They are: Lynn Christie, Sandy Coulson, and Linda Sevener, who have cheered for two years. Raymonde Egli and Pat Moore, who are also graduating this year, have been on the squad one year.

Congratulations to these girls on a job well done.

Netters Win

Lowrey's tennis team won its first match Tuesday, April 7 by beating Garden City 4-3.

In the singles three boys won their matches. They were Larry Kubicz, Russ Wells and the captain, Danny Good. Lowrey also won in the doubles with the team of John Halstead and Paul Ray.

Mr. Martin, the coach, commented that Danny Good shows great spirit and drive. The coach expects much from Good in the matches to come.

Lowrey lost its next meet with Fordson by the score of 6-1 on Monday, April 13. Danny Good was the only member of the team to win his matches with scores of 6-0 and 9-7. The rest of the team lost.

When asked what he thought of the team Mr. Martin said, "The team is weak in doubles and is very inexperienced. It must build up its strength."

Reserves Tromped

Lowrey's reserve baseball team lost in extra innings to Ecorse, 4-3, in its first game of the season on Thursday, April 9th, at Geer field.

The game went eight innings, one past the scheduled seven. The score was deadlocked, 3-3, at the end of the seven innings. Ecorse scored the winning run when their first baseman hit a squibbling single in front of the plate. He advanced to second base on an infield out. He then took a passed ball and slid in with the winning run on a second passed ball. Lowrey was unable to score in their half of the eighth inning, and Ecorse walked away with the victory.

When asked for a comment on his opinion on the team's performance, Coach Lowry said, "It was a close game all the way. The boys played well. If they continue to hustle we should win our share of games this spring."

In the last inning Don Niemie took over on the mound and when the Bears scored three runs, he became the winning pitcher.

The Bears had some strong hitting Bob Srednicki, Dick Titus, and Jim Furtak each got two hits, with Furtak getting most of the R.B.I.'s. Ron Takas also chipped in with a long triple.

Here is the starting lineup for the Bears: Dick Titus, 1B; Tim Malyzek, 2B; Doug Cole, SS; Ron Takas, 3B; Jim Furtak, LF; Bob Srednicki, CF; Dan Shortridge, RF; John Flanagan, C; Garry Poole, P.

We would also like to add that John Flanagan injured his hand during the game and will be out for a few games.
