

Second Large Federal Relief Program Seen For 1936-37

MILLIONS WILL BE NEEDED TO HELP JOBLESS

State And Communities Are Unable To Take Care Of Needy

(Copyright, 1935, by United Press.)
 WASHINGTON, Dec. 2 (UP).—A nationwide survey today emphasized the probability of a second large federal work-relief program in the 1936-37 fiscal year.

With the New Deal's current $4,000,000,000 anti-depression drive at its peak, estimates were for expenditure of between $1,000,000,000 and $2,000,000,000 to meet the needs of the nation's jobless for 12 months after next July 1.

As the government cut off direct relief funds to states, a United Press survey showed that:

1. Many political subdivisions contend they are without funds to provide for unemployed.
2. Some 4,000,000 needy, classed as "unemployables" have been forced on to state, county and local care.
3. The $4,000,000,000 work relief program promises to change the "face" of the country with projects ranging from draining malarial swamps in Alabama to connecting the Gulf of Mexico with the Atlantic ocean by planning a canal across Florida.

Most Important
 Perhaps most important in the future work relief outlook was the agreement of relief experts that most of the 3,500,000 now listed on government payrolls would not be returned to private industry by next July, when the present program expires.

The climax of the relief program developed from a series of events starting last January when the New Deal faced a decision of vast importance to the nation.

Twenty and one-half million persons—one-sixth of the population of the country—depended on the government for food, clothing and shelter. The government was spending $3,000,000 a day to meet their bare needs.

Program Failed
 The administration's $3,000,000,000 public works program had failed to make jobs. The president had to decide whether to continue the expensive drive or revert to the year-old civil works administration that made jobs for 4,000,000 persons for four months at a cost of $1,000,000,000.

Program Faded
 The government's outright dole policy had cost $2,750,000,000 in the year and seven months since May, 1933. Work-relief would be at least twice as expensive.

BAPTISTS MAP LIQUOR DRIVE

State-Wide Campaign Is Adopted At Session

DALLAS, Dec. 2 (AP).—Texas Baptist Training union leaders, in a scathing denunciation of intoxicating liquors, today resolved to start immediately a state-wide drive against the use of alcohol.

The resolution, presented at the R. T. U. state convention by J. Earl Mead of Dallas, head of the Baptist Temperance Young council, described drunkenness as "the greatest destructive and demoralizing force in the nation, promoting lawlessness, dishonesty, corruption, debauchery and selfishness, and knowing no master but the god of greed."

A program for a crusade against liquor among Baptist youths in the state, as well as other youths, was adopted by the 10,000 Baptists attending the closing session of the convention.

Officers Elected
 Election of officers, in which R. A. Springer of Lubbock was chosen as president, was another major issue at the meeting. Springer, formerly of Dallas, at present is educational director of the First Baptist church in Lubbock.

Ablene was awarded the 1936 B. T. U. convention.

T. C. Gardner of Dallas was appointed for his 21st year, as state B. T. U. director.

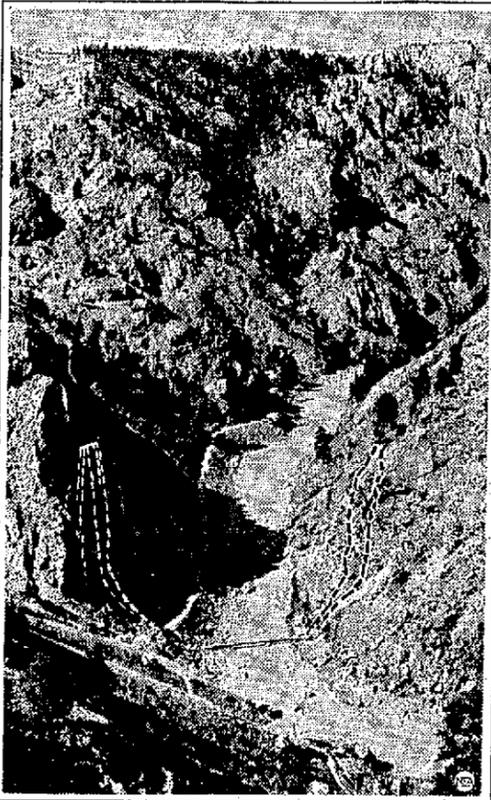

New executive board members were John Fisher, Waco; J. D. Riddle, Abilene; A. G. Pritchard, Kilgore; Troy V. Campbell, San Antonio; A. D. Forman Jr., San Angelo; and Douglas Carver, Harlingen.

Secretaries: Named Recording secretaries for 1935-36 will be Miss Geraldine Hill, Abilene, and Mrs. Ella E. Proving, Dallas. Prof. I. E. Reynolds of Seminary Hill was appointed director of music and Mrs. James Dougherty of Necona, pianist.

Vice presidents, representing the various districts, were chosen as follows:

T. R. Morris, Jefferson; H. K. Littlefield, Jacksonville; J. McRae, Ray, Beaumont; L. N. McRae, Houston; N. B. Moon, Lufkin; J. W. Mason Pearson, J. M. English, El Paso; Ira M. Powell, Big Spring; Ray Shaw, Moran; George Dale, Tahoka; C. O. Huber, Pampa; Ira Harrison, Paducah; W. L. Howse, Fort Worth; Hugh Bumpas, Sherman; M. O. Check, Hubbard; Ray Duckworth, Cameron; and A. J. Quinn, Eldorado.

Dam To Be Twenty Stories High

Marking a great step in progress on the $22,700,000 Casper-Alcoy project, which will reclaim 66,000 acres of land in central Wyoming and provide power to develop the region's vast mineral resources, the giant 260-foot-high Seminole storage dam soon will begin to take form across the rugged North Platte river canyon pictured above.

Lines painted on the wall at left, marking location of a dam abutment, indicate height of the barrier, which will impound 1,020,000 acre feet of water. The footbridge crossing the river in the foreground marks approximate location of the upstream toe of the dam.

Local Woman Recalls Seeing Lyon Quintuplets Shortly After Birth

Another gray-haired mother, this one from Port Arthur, has followed the fortunes of the Dionne quintuplets with unusual interest.

Mrs. G. M. Ladner, 210 Sixth, not only remembers the Lyon quintuplets, described in Sunday's News, but saw them the morning following their birth and contributed $5 to their welfare fund.

"They were very tiny," Mrs. Ladner said, "the five together weighing little more than 12 pounds. My contribution wasn't much compared to some. The governor of Kentucky came down on a special train, suggested the Biblical names for the boys, and presented them with $100 each."

Mrs. Ladner, who was born in Fulton, Ky., in 1878, was reared in Paducah, near Mayfield, where the boys were born in 1896. She said the babies had not had much chance to live, as bottle feeding, their only hope, was frowned upon in those days.

Offer Refused
 "A good mother was expected to breast-feed her children then," she said, "whether there were one or a dozen. As the babies died they were embalmed and exhibited in the windows of Guy Nance's undertaking parlor. Later the family received a large offer from a promoter who wished to mummify the bodies and show them throughout the country."

Crowds that rushed to see the quintuplets probably contributed to their early death, Mrs. Ladner said, as even Illinois Central trains stopped while crews ran in to see the babies. There was room for only 10 or so in the house at a time. Every hurdle, a four-horse drawn vehicle that met trains, was crowded with people bound for the Lyon's home.

Born Within Hour
 "To me the most remarkable part of the affair is that all five babies were born within an hour," Mrs. Ladner said. "Now it is remarkable for twins to be born within that time. I was last in Paducah in 1906, when I buried my parents, and at that time the Lyon family was living well on a farm bought with money contributed and realized from the sale of pictures of the babies."

Mrs. Ladner, whose maiden name was Clara Wilson, is herself the mother of five. One of these is still living, Carl Wilson, who is a member of the local fire department staff.

"I have mentioned the Lyon quintuplets before," Mrs. Ladner said, "but people simply shook their heads and said the story of the Dionne girls was difficult enough to believe."

Four hundred factories closed in England during 1933, while 463 new ones were opened. These employ 329,500 workers.

MANY UTILITIES DEFY U. S. LAW

Companies Continue Business Despite Regulation

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2 (UP).—A huge part of the $15,000,000,000 public utility industry opened for business today in defiance of government efforts to regulate its affairs.

Virtually every large public utility holding company had either ignored the government or filed suit to restrain the government from regulating holding companies when the deadline for registration passed last night.

The securities and exchange commission, charged with enforcement of the public utility holding company act of 1935, reported that only 57 holding companies, most of them small, had registered with the commission as required by law. Another 309 companies had filed applications for exemption and 44 others were involved in litigation over the act.

Business in the industry was expected to proceed as usual today and little of importance was expected until at least one of the 44 cases now pending in federal courts reaches the United States supreme court.

MURDER OF COUPLE CONTINUES MYSTERY

COLORADO, Dec. 2 (AP).—Although convinced that E. W. Toothman, 60, and Wilson Hamel, 22, were killed by a person who was supposed to be spending the night with them, officers today were still mystified as to the identity and motive of the slayer as they were when the bullet-ridden bodies were found Thursday morning in Toothman's grocery-filling station.

Toothman was known to have had a business disagreement several weeks ago, but there was little evidence, officers said, to support either a grudge or a robbery theory.

FAST PLANE TO JOIN HUNT FOR ELLSWORTH

CALDWELL, N. J., Dec. 2 (UP).—Mechanics tuned up a fast long-range, low-winged monoplane today for a dash to Antarctica where it will search for Lincoln Ellsworth, the missing explorer.

The plane was flown here yesterday from Roosevelt field, by Russell W. Thaw.

They refused to discuss the projected flight, but it is understood he will fly the ship to Northrup plant at Santa Monica, Cal., where it will be fitted with skis for use in the Antarctic. He will then fly to the southernmost tip of South America where he will deliver the machine to the Ellsworth expedition.

FARM PROJECT WILL BE STUDIED BY FDR

WARM SPRINGS, Ga., Dec. 2 (UP).—President Roosevelt intended to see for "self today what the government is going to rehabilitate farm families and give them economic and social security."

Accompanied by members of his party and federal officials, the chief executive will drive 20 miles to Pine Mountain valley where a model resettlement project is thriving. The president will look over 75 newly completed houses and watch workmen put finishing touches to several dozen more. In all, 250 families will be accommodated.

The project, developed on the long-range planning schedule, is designed to be self-liquidating.

UNDERWRITERS WILL HEAR EDITOR TUESDAY

C. C. Robinson, editor of the Insurance Salesman and nationally known lecturer, will speak at the luncheon of the Fort Arthur association of life underwriters in the Goodhue hotel, Tuesday noon, according to Ray Saunders, president.

REVENUE FROM FINES IS LESS

Collections Here Show Big Decrease

Slapping a fine on a person in Port Arthur is one thing but collecting it is quite another, judging by the monthly report of the corporation court and the police department.

Total fines and costs assessed for November was $1749.10 as against $2,569.35 in October. Cash fines and costs collected amounted to $544.85, as against $1,215.95 the preceding month.

The wide discrepancy between the fines assessed and the cash collected was explained by City Secretary A. F. Hine. Those who did not pay up are in jail or have "served their fines out" by doing various work for the city, he said.

Total arrests made during November were 408 as compared with 466 in October. The principal charges were: Suspicious characters, 100; drunk, 108; vagrancy, 22; disturbing the peace, 23; reckless driving, 50; overtime parking, 36; riding bicycle without lights, 86.

No arrests were made for riding bicycles without lights, the complaints being more in the nature of warnings. Formal charges will be filed in such cases this month, it was said.

Bear Turns Down Beer For Bite Of Man's Arm

FORT WORTH, Dec. 1 (UP).—The bear was a bear for bear—so Joe Chatoupa, in a friendly spirit, offered the animal, chained to a roadside drink stand, a bottle.

The bear declined the beer but sank his teeth in Chatoupa's arm. In the hospital with a fractured arm and severe bites, Joe was philosophical.

"Guess I'll just have to grin and bear it," he said.

HEARING TODAY FOR LOCAL MEN

Three Charged With Assault In Fight Over Strike

Examining trial for the three men charged with assault with a prohibited weapon in connection with a street fight last Friday afternoon, in which R. M. Neal of Orange was beaten up, was to be held at 2 p. m. today before Justice of the Peace L. S. McGuire.

The hearing was scheduled for 10 o'clock this morning but was postponed.

Those charged in the case are A. Donningue, J. Branda and E. Dugas.

They were arrested after an argument over the longshoremen's strike, it was said.

Harve Haines, general manager of the chamber of commerce, quelled the altercation when he ran to his car, drew a pistol from the pocket of his coat and fired it three times in the air and held the men until they were arrested by Ranger Edgar T. Neal and C. A. Garner.
