juniors

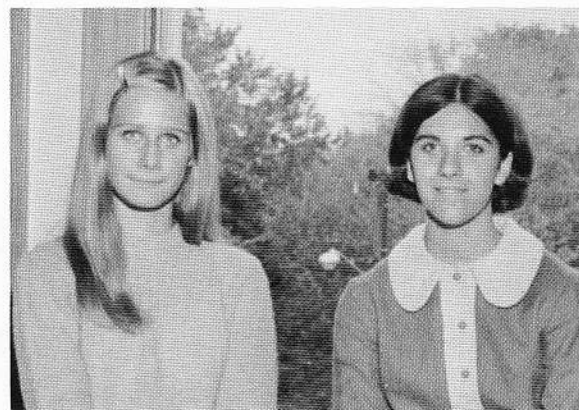

When the Juniors returned to Amherst in the fall of '68, they came to the realization that this would be the busiest year in their high school career. Those with plans of going to college were busy attending college discussions offered by the school and taking the PSAT's and SAT's. Those not planning for college took courses at Harkness Center in preparation for Vocational Careers.

The Magazine Drive was the first project the class worked on. They were inspired by the brilliant performances of Amy Rosenberg and Fred Rosenberg in the magazine skit, a takeoff on "The Graduate." At the end of the drive, President Jackie Smith bravely stepped up to accept the last place prize, a dime. Although the Magazine Drive meant disheartening failure, the Juniors made it up by placing first in the United Fund Drive.

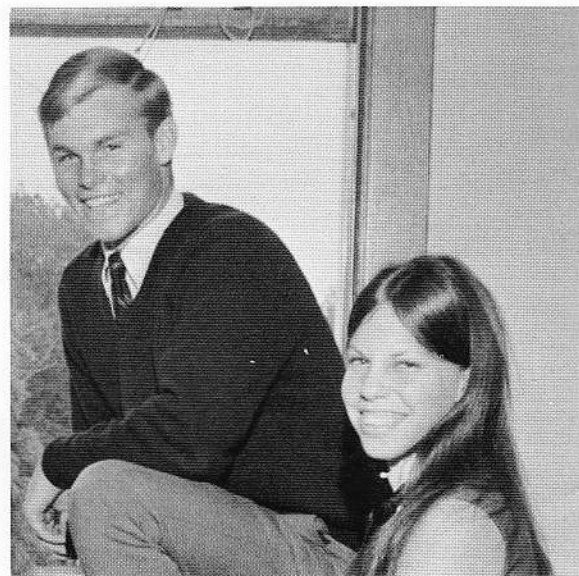

As a class, they made an Amherst "first" by holding the first class picnic. On a chilly, fall day, they loaded into cars and went to Chestnut Ridge Park. The unanimous opinion: "cold, wet, and tons of fun." They also supported a toboggan party, a successful Junior play, and a romantic Junior Prom.

The Junior Class was lucky to have the leadership it did. The 92 President, Jackie Smith, was aided by Vice President, Betsy Wittlinger, in all the class projects. Duke McGuire, Treasurer, managed to keep the books fairly straight. The secretary, Peggy Greenfield, was busy taking minutes of the Class Council meetings. Together they helped to make the year a good one.

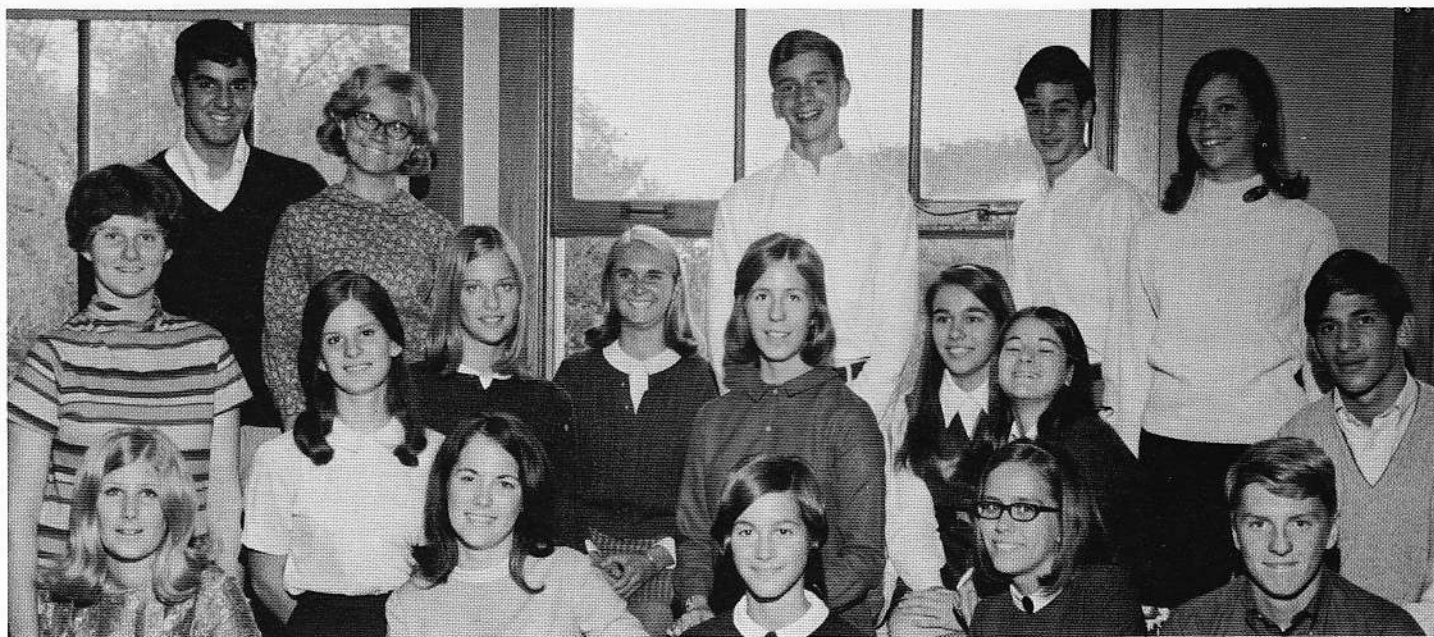

Unified with a feeling of accomplishment, the class of '70 could proudly look back at their successful Junior year and anticipate a better Senior year.
