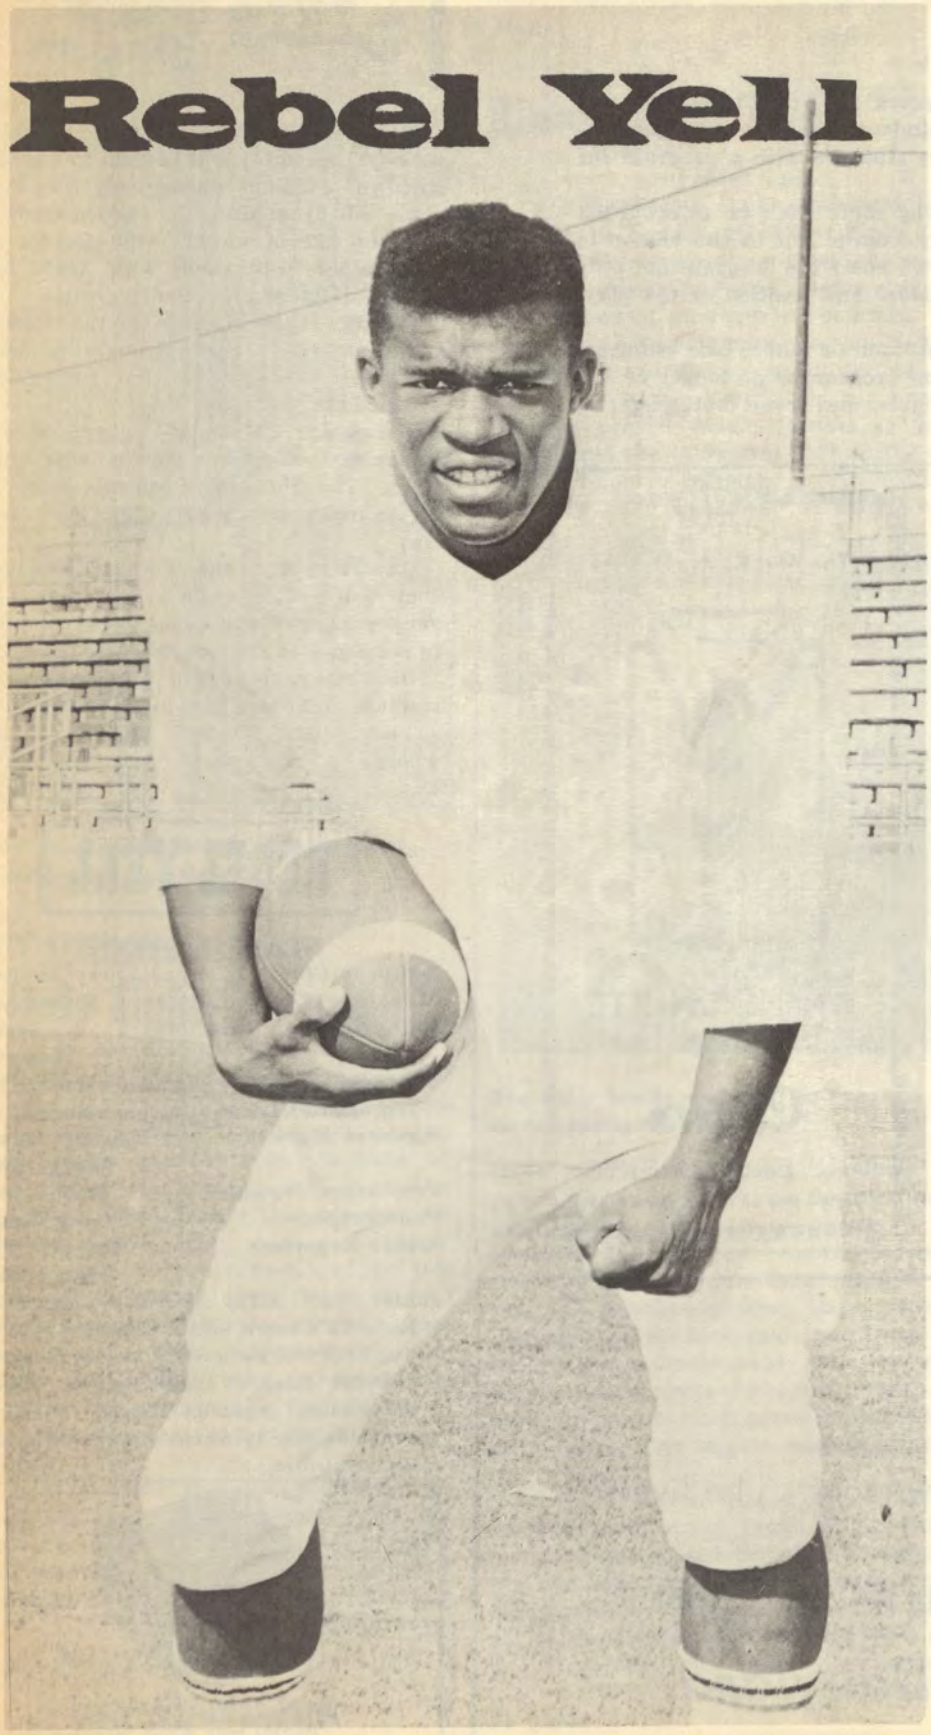
Rebel Yell



Scampering Preston George—a sprinter in football togs—has scored two of the Rebels' four touchdowns thus far this year.

FIRST HOME GAME

Bears Come A-snoopin'

The home folks get a chance tonight to view the 1966 edition of the South High Rebels, and the game against the aggressive Arvin Bears will put Coach Larry Lafond's eleven to a good test. Scouting reports, Lafond and assistant coach Don Ward said, show that former South High teacher J. R. Williams' squad is tougher than either of the Rebs' first two opponents.

South, winners last Friday over Hanford, 20-14, and owners now of a 1-1 season record, faces a couple of Kennedys in Junior and Don, and a pass-catching wizard in Bill Tarver. Arvin last 7 to 6 to North High last Friday after bombarding Burroughs of China Lake the week before.

The Rebels rolled up 250 yard rushing against their Central Yosemite League foes, but didn't have the game really under control until the fourth quarter when halfback Gene Walker culminated a 66-yard drive with a ten-yard spurt over center. The Rebs had scored previously in the first and third quarters on four and 30 yard runs by Preston George and Johnny Hines, respectively.

His players were in better shape for Hanford than they were for Porterville, Coach Lafond said after the game. The blocking was crisper, and the defensive line was more agile. In fact, Mr. Lafond and Mr. Ward named linemen Don Richardson and back Mike Hale as the game's outstanding players, primarily because of their blocking.

One of Lafond's problems, as he sees it, is that the Rebels have a peculiar ability to look good one minute and then quite bad the next.

"I mentioned that during the halftime at Hanford, and during the second half the good moments started outnumbering the bad ones," he said.

Out with injuries this week are Johnny Walker, who got a starting call last week at guard. Walker will be out a couple of weeks with a twisted knee. And Craig McGee, who was Mr. Lafond's first choice as signal caller until he hurt his leg during the carnival in Memorial Stadium, is not likely to see action again this week. Dave Rader again will be the starting quarterback.

Wallace Williams, a giant tackle, also was mentioned as "coming along fine" by the coaches.

Mr. Williams employs a pro-type offense at Arvin, while Mr. Lafond continues to use his "I" offense with "South High variations."

A Programmed Tradition

Since the beginning of South High nine years ago, the Rebel Yell has served the students in two ways: first, to offer students a weekly news publication about their school, and secondly, to provide students with a program for major sports events such as football games.

To the student, the program issue is nothing more than an information sheet, most of the contents of which he already knows. But to the visitor to South's home games (or stadium games which we host) the program not only gives the basic statistics such as the name, number and position of the players, it tells a little more about South High.

So the visitor, after closely following a multitude of names and numbers, discovers at the end of the game that the 10 cent program is no longer of any waste, because behind that first page of the program lies seven more pages of stories depicting life at South High. — W. L.

DIXIE DATELINE

Today a Girls' League assembly and an all-boys' assembly will be held in the boys' gym and stadium, respectively. The Rally Club will drum up some school spirit for the big games tonight: the Rebels and the Raiders will clash with Arvin here, and the Riders play Shafter there.

Monday is the big day for the House of Representatives, the members of which will start one of the first fund-raising sales of the year.

Wednesday minus 474 years is when Columbus sailed the ocean blue (circa 1492). The Political Problems Club will try to make money by selling See's Suckers.

On Thursday, the Political Problems Club will again try to sell suckers. The varsity reserve will cause their opponents to see Stars as they challenge North High.

On Friday, there will be a rally in the stadium following the distribution of the "Rebel Yell." (We had to plug it somewhere. - J.F.)

RUNNERS NEEDED

Only Eight Show Up

By Larry Whitlach

Unknown to many willing runners, there is a sport for them in the fall: cross country. Mr. Steve Strauss is the able mentor; however, his and the team's success depends upon participation by a greater number of able runners than are out for the sport at this time.

Only eight boys are now out for this sport. Two of them, Fred Cantrariz and Bob Gaines, run in the varsity rank. Contrariz took a very respectable seventh spot in the tri-school meet two weeks ago on the South campus. He had a time of 10:33 for the grueling mile and eight-tenths.

The remaining boys are placed in the frosh-sophomore division. Joe Vega has copped a second and a third place in meets and also has posted a best time of 10:43. Lawrence Ybanez secured a fourth in last week's meet between North and BHS.

Today the thinclads have a triangular meet with West and Foothill at West High.

Riders Win, 19-0

By Rick Lee

Todd Starr led a three touchdown scoring attack against the West High Cees as the Riders wiped out their opponents, 9-0, last Friday in South High's stadium.

Starr scored all three six-pointers. The first came with 5:30 remaining in the first quarter when Starr romped around left end from six yards out. This run around left end proved very effective, as Starr also scored the other two TD's in the second and fourth quarters in this manner. Only one PAT was made as quarterback Mark Hance missed two place kicks, but passed safely to Robert on the final point after attempt.

The Rider bench: watching, waiting, and contemplating the outcome.

Coach Clete Harper commented that there were only a few light injuries, but that this is expected when the boys were hitting hard. He also said that Starr and the defensive linebackers were the most outstanding players for South High, and that in view of this game there will be no major change in personnel or strategy this week.

Statistics proved that it was mainly a running game from South High's viewpoint. Hance passed three times completing one. Starr ran 18 times for a net of 139 yards, or over seven and a half yards per carry. Ron Brown, fullback, was second in yards gained with 59 yards in 12 carries. Craig Thomas had one punt for 34 yards.

This afternoon the Riders travel to Shafter to meet their foes from that school at 3:30. Shafter lost to the Arvin C's last week, 25-0.

NO QUIET MOMENTS

Extra Executive Duties

By Shirley Zentmire

Painting, and sign-putting-up? The South High Executive Board has eleven such commissioners whose extra duties entitle them to the above title. According to vice-president Sam Stover, each member spends from five to ten hours per week on student government work.

Duties range from painting and putting up posters to the stapling together of "Confederate Customs." The members also sell tickets, ASB cards, participate in rallies, plan clubs' activities, and carry on correspondence with the other schools.

Besides the volunteer work, each member also has special extra duties. For president John Walker this means attending Rotary Club and California Associated Student Council meetings. Commissioner of Boys' Athletics Steve Smalley acts as a direct line between the coaches and the Exec Board. Shelia MacWhinney, Commissioner of Girls' Athletics, also serves as a liason for GAA.

Not only does the Exec Board have the major minor jobs to do, but they have ten major projects and the theme of student communication to carry out. Sam Stover voiced the opinion of the Exec Board when he said "We never have any quiet moments."

SIDE BY SIDE

Board Chooses Pair

Four adventurous people came forward when it was announced that South High needed a historian and a file clerk. The four were Gay Pagni, Debbie Helm, Cindy Nelson and Susan Friske. Since only two people could be chosen, an executive board meeting was held to decide the issue. It was voted, after a talk with the applicants and looking over their letters on why they wished to have the job, that Gay Pagni will be the 1966-67 ASB historian and Susan Friske, the file clerk.

See Susan file. File, Friske, file. And see Gay read. Read, Pagni, read.

Gay said, "I applied for the job because I like responsibility, a challenge, and I think the job will be a lot of fun." Both Gay and Susan have all their classes together and regard themselves as the Bobbsey Twins. One of their favorite classes is trigonometry in which they are the sole members. Their trigonometry teacher has office hour that period; consequently the girls have independent study

LIFE ON A SOUTH HIGH ROOTER BUS, OR

Somebody Buy Ear Plugs For the Driver!

By Kim Chidester

As the sun sinks slowly in the west, Rebel rousers prepare to embark upon a truly unique adventure, via rooter bus. Having given all their fond farewells they amble aboard the big yellow "monster" and proceed to check out the accoustics. When this task is completed, along with the usual switching of seats, they finally settle down for the first mile or so.

As the group moves on, the mood becomes tense, loud and virtually hysterical with enthusiasm. Girls and boys alike are keeping beat to the cheers by using their hands, feet, mouths and anything unattached to the bus. The roar increases as the bus draws closer to the opposing team's field. Above the din within the metal carcass, one can almost hear the pathetic cries of the bus driver to "please keep it down."

Throughout the entire event sits the man at the steering wheel, the true hero, who remains brave, distraught and most likely both blue and gray. This could be school patriotism; however, most adults would term it sheer agony. Driving with all the windows up, the radio on, and approximately sixty mouths, legs and arms all moving at once could give him acid indigestion or at the very least a nervous stomach. But through it all he remains sane enough to drop his noisy charges off at their destination.

The fans are then put out in the cold cruel world to heat up the air with their melodious screams. Their noise finally subsides when the last seconds of the game are completed. Having gotten their money's worth, the weary group retreats to the now warm creature from whence they came.

The last part of the journey is one based on fate. If the team was victorious, the rooters chew their cuds for a while like contented cows. The mood is an exhausted, but happy one. However, if the team was not a winner, the rooters indulge sadly in a few "might have beens." This brings the atmosphere down to a fairly miserable, but quiet tone. As the stars shine brightly in the sky, the only audible sounds become the various squeaks and groans of the old yellow bus heading home, filled with a lot of kids who have but one thought in mind, "We'll win the next one!"

BLOOD AND GUTS

Tiajuana Right Here

"Teachers Around the World" will be presented in 3-D technicolor at tonight's half-time show. Starring in the production will be Drum Major Rick Davis, Drill Team Leader Annette Dewitt and her assistants, Doria Garcia, Christie Baur, and Shelley Shell. Finishing out the cast are the 104 member band and 85 drill team members.

A highlight of the show will be a bullfight between the matador (Rick Davis), and the bull (Randy Fowler). The music to fight by will be "Tiajuana Taxi." Everyone should enjoy the show (except, of course, the bull).

CUB (VAN)PELTING TIME

Raiders Undefeated

Coach George Van Pelt's 'B' class Raiders go into tonight's game against Arvin with two wins to their credti. The terriers of Hanford were their latest victims, falling 6 to 0 to the Raiders on the Hanford field last Friday.

Dirk Van Pelt ran over the first and only TD with 6:15 to go in the first quarter. The point after was unsuccessful.

Leading ground-gainer for South High was junior Ronnie Sessions, who gained 59 yards on nine carries, or about six and one half yards per carry. Young Van Pelt passed five times, completing one and having one intercepted.

The game tonight starts at 6 p.m. The Arvin Bees dropped the North High Comets last week, 13-6.

FEMININE FOOTWORK

Vic Tanny Substitutes

"Rags for sale! Rags for sale!" GAA members will be in need for old clothes after painting posters for their poster campaign launched this week. The posters are just a part of the program initiated by the club to influence incoming freshman girls, as well as others on campus.

Vickie Lukens, GAA president, plans for an influx of new members by initiating more playdays and a variety of intramural sports during advisory to interest these new members.

Officers of the club, besides Vickie, are Geneva Martin, vice-president; Carol Kuest, treasurer; Lisa Brown, sophomore representative; and Gee Gee Fritz, senior representative. The positions of secretary, sports manager, freshman and junior representatives are open to interested girls who are willing to work.

TESTING TIME

Silent Yearlings

Silence reigning over part of the advisories is a good sign that the annual freshman testing has begun. The freshmen will soon find out, when the results have returned, where their interests should be emphasized. The results of the Henman-Nelson Test of Mental Ability will show the student, as one freshman says, "How much smarts we got."

Mr. Bob Lee, director of the testing, stated that these tests have been given for the last four years to all incoming freshmen. The purpose, as he explained, of the differential apptitude tests is to help direct the individual to a vocation or field he shows a higher score in than another and therefore, perhaps pursue his interest in that area.

A few freshmen who were interviewed said that they didn't mind taking the tests but the problem they have is not getting enough "conversation time."

'DEAD' CLUB LIVES

FHA Back in Action

An old club died, a new club was born, then the new club died, and now the "dead" club is being revived. Two years ago, the South High chapter of the Future Homemakers of America, like a package of Jell-O, dissolved. Not long after this, a new club was formed. This was called the Southern Debs and was modeled after the FHA. The members served at banquets, etc. This year, the Southern Debs are being buried and the FHA is again in existence.

Advisor Mrs. Florence Alvergue wants to bring back the FHA because of the state affiliation. The state FHA holds many meetings throughout the year. Each chapter may send representatives to the meetings and they talk to the other girls there and bring different ideas back to her home chapter.

A girl doesn't have to take a homemaking class to belong to the club, but all the club projects will be related to homemaking in some way or another. "Everyone, married or not, is a homemaker," said Mrs. Alvergue. As yet, the club has no definite plans. They will soon choose a nominating committee to nominate people for officers. After officers are elected, the girls will really get under way. They are thinking of serving at school banquets, perhaps having a car wash, and they may also have some joint activity with the Future Farmers of America.

LEARNING BY DOING

Teachers' Helpers

By Gee Gee Fritz

"Helping hands throughout the school" is an appropriate motto for the Rebel Business Leaders. The RBL is designed to give its members experience in a variety of office work helping teachers with their overload of work.

On-the-job training and relating working experiences were discussed at the last meeting. Guest speakers from employment offices and employers are some of the many activities planned for the club during the coming year.

Mrs. Ruth Vibe, RBL's new advisor, says the club is open to all South High students who are interested in a business career and who are willing to work, so before long, many South High teachers will have part-time student secretaries It's work for RBL members, but it's also invaluable and useful experience.

CHAMBER CHOIR

A New Addition

The newest addition to South's repertoire of vocal cords will be the Chamber Choir. Squeezed in between the choir and the Double Trio, this group will perform music written with the smaller group in mind.

"Some music just can't be performed by large choirs. This choir will perform that music," comments Mr. Bill Pearson, Rebel vocal director. Mr. Pearson has high hopes for the chamber group. He feels that a group of 12-16 members can perform more often because of mobility. Besides performing everything from Broadway musicals to Madrigals, the Chamber Choir will learn to appreciate the more advanced music.

NO PART OF SPEECH, HE

Pandering Bookworm

By Susan Edwards

Contrary to popular opinion, all English teachers are not made of nouns, verbs, and adjectives. A new face in South High's

A new face in South High's English department, Mr. Bill Miller, refreshes his memory on the latest current events.

English department, made of rockets, warfare, and political compaigning, is Mr. Bill Miller. He enjoys readng current events magaznes in his free moments, thus pondering on rockets and policies of war.

Mr. Miller received his education at the University of Florida and UCLA. He has lived in California for six years and has taught high school for three years, previously in the Los Angeles area. He coached basketball and taught English during that time.

Teaching two junior English classes, three senior English classes, and a senior advisory occupies a great deal of Mr. Miller's time, but not all of it. Donya, his wife who teaches ceramics and English at BHS, and 15-month-old daughter, Heidi, are included in his schedule.

Basketball, baseball and the historical novels of Henry James snatch the remaining moments of Mr. Miller's day.

This year's campaign for the trigger-happy shutterbugs include taking pictures at proms and helping the Rebel Yell and Yearbook. The Photostats will see new action this year when they take individual and group color pictures of the athletic teams.

Mr. Clete Harper, the Photostats' advisor, stated that the club will photograph weddings, parties, and do portraits for South High people at one-half the fee.

SANTA'S SHOWBOAT

Formal Plans Already

By Gee-Gee Fritz

Way up north, in the land of snow and ice, dwells a jolly, fat man with a long white beard and a bright red suit. His time of the year is December and his climate is definitely cold and icy.

The Girls' League must certainly agree, since the theme of this year's Christmas Formal (which they annually sponsor), is Santa's Showboat. Pat Fanucchi, president, says that this year's formal will be the best ever and urges everyone to participate in the decorating of the cafeteria for the dance. The color scheme will be red and white. Entertainment will be provided by Bob Larma and his Orchestra.

The officers also plan to have a fashion show and color day, and to continue the traditional Sadie Hawkins' Day. An assembly held yesterday, sponsored by the League, featured a skit by James Ratcliff and League members, with musical entertainment provided by the Rising Sounds.

Officers other than Pat are Doria Garcis, vice-president; Charlene Hall, secretary; and Janis Peterson, treasurer.

INVITATIONAL

Forensics Forge Ahead

South's dynamic Speech Club once again pushes off into the stream of interscholastic competition when the first meet is held on campus tomorrow. Subsequent tournaments will be held every other Saturday and every other tournament will be a debate.

Officers who planned this year's activities are Pat McDole, president; Jim Tucker, vice-president; and Marsha Bumbalough, secretary-treasurer.

Freshmen and new students were introduced to the organization when a speech invitational was held last Wednesday night. Another newcomer was Miss Jan Hooyer, advisor to the club.
