Language Clubs Get Together For Annual Christmas Party

"Frohliche weihnachen!"
"Feliz navidad!"
"Joyeux Noel!"

Yes, the Christmas season is here, and to celebrate this joyous occasion the Edsel Ford language clubs will congregate for their annual Yuletide season party in Thunderbird Hall on Thursday, December 15, from 7:30 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. The tickets are 50 cents for non-club members and 25 cents for club members.

Many members of each club are eagerly working to make this year's Christmas party another success. Linda Watts, 12B, is the head of the party and helping her are seniors Carolyn Yagelo and Sue Rue.

Entertainment for the party consists of skits presented by each language club. Besides skits, each club sings Christmas songs in the language which they are studying. All other clubs sing along and try to learn the words.

Another highlight of the evening is the breaking of the pinata. The pinata, which will hang from the ceiling, will be filled with all sorts of candy. Several people are blindfolded and given mallets to break the bag. The others stand patiently waiting for the bag to break, and when all the candy falls to the floor, they make a mad scramble for it.

So, join in and celebrate the Yuletide season with the language clubs. It can only make you fat!

Preparations Made For Christmas Dance

The Edsel Ford Hi-Y Christmas Dance will be held Thursday, December 22, from 8:30 p.m. until 11:30 p.m. in Thunderbird Hall.

Providing the music for the evening will be a group called the Daybreaks. The cost of the dance will be $2.00 with no activity ticket, $1.75 as a single with one activity ticket, or $1.50 as a couple with two activity tickets.

The appropriate dress will be Sunday dress clothes for both the boys and girls. Girls should not wear spaghetti strap dresses or corsages.

During the course of the evening, a senior boy and girl will be chosen as Mr. and Mrs. Santa Claus. So boys, beat the Christmas rush and ask HER early.

Dearborn Student Advisory Council Proposes New School Dress Code

A dress code for students and by students. That is the proposal the Dearborn Student Advisory Council (DSAC) presented to the four high school principals this morning at 9:00.

Edsel Ford High School senior, Les Luchonok, spoke to the principals concerning DSAC decisions on proper school dress. The Council's dress code was arrived at by the members after taking a careful look at rules for dress in all four high schools. Using members as models, the Council displayed today's styles to further clarify what students want in the way

Four Seniors to Perform in Europe With Chorale, Youth International South Germany, Switzerland, Belgium, and Russia are some of the places where four Edsel Ford students will be performing for eight weeks.

Dan Berry, 12B, and Paula Trumble, 12B, will be traveling with the Michigan Chorale, which is composed of sixty-nine students from thirty-four schools in Michigan. Paula and Dan are the only two students from Dearborn participating in the Chorale. The Michigan Chorale is traveling to Belgium by a special invitation to participate in the European Federation of Choirs Festival, held every third year. "To participate in this festival is really quite an honor," remarked Paula Trumble. Then, for the first time in its ten year history, the Chorale will appear in Leningrad, Russia, for five days.

Two other seniors, Bob Pipkens and Dave Guffey, are the other students who will be traveling to Europe. They will be touring with the Michigan Youth International.

Right now, both musical groups are preparing for their trips abroad. Dan and Paula rehearse with the Michigan Chorale in Ann Arbor every Saturday, while Bob and Dave attend rehearsals in Saline for the Michigan Youth International. Songs which they are preparing include a Mozart Mass, some modern American songs, and some Russian folk songs.

As Paula Trumble remarked, "It is an exciting experience to which we are all looking forward."

Edsel Ford Student Wins Gift Certificate

Almost everyone at some time or other wishes that they could go through their favorite store and pick out any and everything they wanted without having to worrying about how they were to pay for the merchandise.

For Janet Bednary, an 11B Edsel Ford student, this wish came true. Janet won a $100 gift certificate from Jacobson's. The contest was held to see who could sell the most boxes of Y-Teens' candy. Janet sold 474 boxes of candy to come in first in the contest.

The money made from the candy sale will be used this spring to send one member of the Y-Teens club to the annual Y-Teens Spring Conference to be held in Massachusetts.

Music Department Plans Programs

That time of year when happiness, peace, and spirit fill the hearts of students here at Edsel Ford, draws near once again. As fast as the season approaches, the Music Department frantically prepares to fill the students hearts with Christmas cheer.

Two musical programs will be presented, both for the public and for the student body.

Public Concert

The first Christmas program, a concert presented by the music department, will be held on the evening of December 20 at 7:30. This concert will be a combination of both instrumental and vocal talent. Displaying talents from the vocal department will be Linda Marley, 11B; Cheryl Riske, 12B; Dan Berry, 12B; Jan Hoehner, 12B; Yvonne Schumacher, 12B; and Bonnie Ledebuhr, 12B.

Along with the vocal department, the orchestra will also present some musical selections for Christmas, including A Christmas Fantasy by Leroy Anderson. A woodwind ensemble will present some Christmas songs among which will be Suite of Carols.

Assembly for Students

Another Christmas program, an assembly given for the students, will be given on Thursday, December 22. This concert will be very much like the assembly last year, where students will have an opportunity to sing Christmas carols.

Holiday Season Arrives Early; Thanksgiving is Pushed Aside

"What's the name of that holiday between Halloween and Christmas?"
 "I can't seem to remember. Let's see, I think it starts with a T."
 "Th . . . Thank . . . Thanksgiving! That's it!"

Whatever happened to Thanksgiving? It seems to have been lost somewhere in the shuffle between October 31 and December 25. No sooner do the goblins and "trick or treat" bags disappear from the stores, then the tree trimmings and strings of plastic holly are dragged out. Oh, occasionally a turkey or pilgrim comes into sight heralding the arrival of Thanksgiving, but it is usually overshadowed by some larger box of Christmas cards.

Why can't we get one holiday out of the way before we begin another? What is the point of rushing the season? Christmas is going to arrive at just the same time no matter when that holly is strung and those ornaments hung. It could be argued that one thing to be thankful for at Thanksgiving is the coming of Christmas, but we don't have to be reminded three weeks before the final Thursday in November.

The department stores should be commended for waiting until the day after Thanksgiving to bring Santa Claus in from the North Pole. Now, if only they could try that same thing with a few of their other Christmas reminders. Maybe then we could all say, "It's beginning to look a lot like Christmas"—but at a more reasonable time.

 DEBATE CLUB

The Debate Club, which is new to Edsel Ford this semester, is now in the process of setting up a club charter. Under the direction of sponsor, Mr. Gordon Cochrane, two debates have been held since its formation; one discussed capital punishment and the other the right of the 18 year old to vote.

G.A.A.

As a service project, G.A.A. donated a Thanksgiving dinner to a needy Dearborn family. Canned goods were supplied by the 12B members, boxed goods by the 11B's, and the 11A and 12A members donated baked goods.

Y-TEENS

Formal initiation for the club was held on Monday, November 21. A joint meeting with Hi-Y is planned for December 21, at which time plans will be made for a joint project.

EF Student Looks Toward Career In the Field of Mortuary Science

Are you a person who has a desire to help others in very emotional situations, do you have a sympathetic personality, and do you talk to many kinds of people with ease? If you're this type of person, mortuary science might be a career for you.

Kurt Chubner, 12B, discovered this past summer that he liked the field of mortuary science, and now plans to become a mortician. Working in his cousin's funeral parlor helped him to make his decision.

Gains Experience

During the summer Kurt learned about the operation of a funeral home. He became familiar with maintenance, general work, and embalming, the latter of which he is now especially interested.

Inquiries and Research

Although Kurt decided a few years ago to go into the field of mortuary work, his job this past summer helped him in choosing his area of interest. He has done research in the occupation before, and has read books and written to colleges of their programs. To gain a liberal arts background, Kurt has decided to go to Hillsdale College after graduation. He plans to spend two years there, and then go on to Wayne State for two years.

If all goes well, some time in the future Kurt may be inviting you to "drop in" and visit his "home." Take care though, he may mean "business."

English Teachers Feel Embarrassment

Mr. Neil Brown, Drama and English Humanities teacher: "A few years ago I was showing one of my classes the different spotlights. Kneeling to plug one of the lights in, I split my trousers up the seam. I went off stage where I stitched up my pants the best I could. The class never knew of my little mishap. Later, during my lunch period, I went home and changed."

Mrs. Muriel Hunt, English Humanities teacher: "The time that I was embarrassed the most was when I was busily scrubbing the floor. My friend's mother, who had just arrived from halfway around the world, came over. She was in fine clothes and I was dressed in a pair of old jeans and an old blouse. I was a complete mess!"

Mr. Gordon Cochrane, Public Speaking and English Humanities teacher: "It was in the senior lounge that my embarrassing moment took place. I saw Mr. Hashoian gazing out the window. I approached him and slapped him (briskly) on the back. To my surprise the person turned out to be an unsuspecting parent whom I had never seen in my life."

The World In A Flower Pot

by Kathy De Mara

That status symbol; the senior ring. Remember the long, agonizing wait from February until June?

"Mrs. Flegle, when are our rings coming?"

"I just can't wait until I get my ring!"

"Only four more months and I get my ring!"

Then the countdown ended. The rings had finally come. At 3:30 on that eventful day, herds of juniors stamped to the alcoves in front of school to pick up their most prized possession. How important one felt when asked, "Is that your class ring? Oh, let me see it!"

Now it's winter and the once excited juniors are sophisticated seniors. Where are those important rings?

"Oh, I gave it to my girl and she lost it."

"It's somewhere on the bottom of one of the lakes at Camp Dearborn."

"It got chewed up in the garbage disposal."

Yes, those rings have really taken a beating. The emblem on the top is wearing together, the stones are shrinking, the once shiny gold bands are now dull with scratches. But in years to come it will hold many fond memories.

Letters to the Editor

Office Secretary is Appreciated; Student Dislikes Picture Procedure

Dear Editor:

I think that some recognition should be given to Wanda Huska who works in the student office. Most people in this school think that because they are busy, they have the right to ignore the basic principles of common courtesy. However, Wanda always has the time to be kind, patient, and understanding. I would like you to know, Wanda, that you are very much appreciated.

D.G. and many others

Dear Editor:

Why don't you take pictures with the whole group of clubs including band, cheerleaders and baton twirlers? It was just a select few last year chosen to represent the group of clubs. We all know who the presidents and the other officers are. Why not have group pictures so we can remember our club and the friends we are with??? Also, we pay for the Flight and would like to see our group clubs represented.

We are for more club group pictures instead of just a select few to represent the clubs. It looks as if a lot of us don't really belong to the clubs and we are proud and want it to be known we do belong.

More attention to the Future Nurses Club and some of the others should be made. After all a lot of gals do candy stripping work at the hospital and E.F.H.S. should be just as proud of them as the football team.

Boltly Bomb

Joe's Tempting Tempest

Joe Boersma, 12B, is the proud owner of this week's Boltly Bomb, a 1963 Tempest LeMans. When Joe bought his Pontiac a month ago, it needed a lot of work. Now, he has his sharp, burgundy convertible running smoothly.

Running Good

Joe remarked that his three speed bomb "runs real good for being a four cylinder. It has beaten a two barrel, 383 Plymouth through first gear."

Sharp Inside Too

This Tempest has a black convertible top and a fine black interior. It boasts a tach, set on the dash, and red interior lights. Under the car there is a single glass pack muffler.

Joe has big plans for his car. "I hope to work on it all winter so it will be ready to go at the strip in the spring."

Spirit Comes To Edsel

It Came Upon A Midnight Clear, The First Noel, and many other familiar carols may be accompanying the usual luncheon "clatter" this Christmas season.

Student Teacher, Mistaken Pupil?

"Where is your hall pass?" echoed the shout of a teacher questioning a student, or so he thought. Really, this student turned out to be Miss Yeakel, the home economic student teacher to Miss McConkey. Miss Yeakel is only a small 5 foot 2 inches tall and could easily be mistaken for a student.

Miss Yeakel's home town is Dexter, Michigan. She went to Central Michigan University in Mount Pleasant where she majored in home economics and minored in recreation. She plans to be at Edsel Ford as a student teacher until the end of January.

"Any outdoor sport" is what Miss Yeakel commented on as her hobbies, including water skiing which she especially likes.

It was brought before the student government and the council of club and class presidents, that the students of Edsel Ford High School don't have any "Christmas spirit." The students then resolved to try to promote this "spirit" by decorating Edsel.

The decorations will be put up December 12th and 13th, and will be taken down after the holiday. Each club is assigned an alcove near the library. The student government will decorate the court windows and the different classes the alcoves by the lobby.

The seniors have already made plans for a Christmas tree to be placed in their lounge; the horticulture class is making wreaths, wreaths, and more wreaths to be placed all over the school; and Christmas carols may be played during the lunch hour.

Vacations Prove To Be Plentiful; They Pop Up When Not Expected

"Already? But we just got back in school. What is it this time—the ducks' anniversary?"

"No, it's not that big a celebration. It's only the middle of the second week in December. You remember. We always get out Thursday and Friday of this week. It's tradition!"

"Oh yeah! I remember now. Boy! It sure seems like I've seen a lot of the "homestead" lately."

Does this conversation sound familiar? Hardly, but it does bring to mind the many vacations we receive during the year.

Let's see now. How many times do we get off from school? Well, first of all there's summer. M-m-m . . . those beautiful tans, that exhilarating game of tennis, that cool dip in the pool . . . Ugh! Better face reality.

When I Was Seven-

When I was seven, I was very fond of my roller skates.
 Now I am seventeen and I have a skateboard.
 When I was seven, Saturday nights were the greatest because I could stay up late and act juvenile.
 Now I am seventeen and I find myself acting as ridiculous as ever while looping through Blazo's on Saturday nights.
 When I was seven, I loved to watch the escapades of such fantasy favorites as Howdy Doody, Mickey Mouse and Bulwinkle.
 Now I am seventeen and I watch more mature programs such as Beverly Hillbillies, Batman, and Green Hornet.
 When I was seven, I loved to play "army" and just couldn't wait to get a chance to fight the "bad guys."
 Now I am seventeen, but I don't like the game anymore.
 When I was seven, I was sure there were many differences between boys and girls.
 Now I am seventeen and I am beginning to have my doubts.
 When I was seven, I believed in fairy tales and bad things happening only to bad people.
 Now I am seventeen and I have convinced myself that I will not be drafted.
 When I was seven, I lived in a world that was carefree and no one ever had any problems or responsibility.
 Now I am seventeen . . .

Jan Hoehner: Girl On The Go

WANTED: Musically talented girl with modeling experience. Jan Hoehner, 12B, can answer this advertisement.

School Activities

Jan moved to St. Louis from Germany, and from there to Dearborn. After entering Edsel Ford High School this fall, Jan has become a member of the band and the wind ensemble. Jan also sings in the school choir, and participates in G.A.A. and the Officials' Club.

Professional Modeling

As if all this weren't enough, she belongs to her church choir and also works as a Fashionette which is a paid teen-age model for Hudson's.

Old and New

When Jan was asked to name the differences between her old school in St. Louis and Edsel Ford, she said she felt that the music curriculum was better here, and that the curriculum in general is very different at Edsel. Jan feels that there is no difference at all in the students here and in St. Louis. She also said, "The school spirit is much better at Edsel Ford than it was in my old school."

Juniors Eager; Reading Novels

While the seniors are busy making book analyses and the sophomores are completely engulfed in their anthologies, the juniors have been busy reading novels.

One book that every future 11B can look forward to reading is The Adventures of Huckleberry Finn by Mark Twain. This year's 11B's have pretty thoroughly analyzed Huck Finn, and most students have proceeded on to another book.

The 11B's have varied feelings concerning this early American novel. Some students sincerely found the book interesting as well as entertaining and then others would rather have read The Adventures of Mother Goose.

So as Huck Finn is tucked away for another year, the 11B's march on, but the fond memories of this famous character will remain in their hearts forever.

Birds - Cage the Cagers

Like Ice? Wrestlers Do

Last Wednesday on Thanksgiving Eve, Edsel officially opened the 1966-67 basketball season.

The game, away at Roseville, was an out and out victory.

In the first quarter, Sam Kachaturoff, 12A, Doug Bock, 12B, Paul Smith, 12A, Dan Schewe, 12B, and Steve Kough, 12B, the "starting five," got the game going.

High Point Total

On the court these boys showed their "stuff" and played a vigorous game. During the game Dan Schewe scored a total of 24 point for Edsel—the game high. Others contributing to the conquest were Smith, 14 points, Kachaturoff, 12, Kough, 12, Bob Bores, 10, Bock, 7, Dennis Aylward, 5, Ken Yungkans, 5, Ted Grignon, 5, Pat Monea, 4, and Jim Beems, 2. Whether or not they scored points, the whole team played.

Triple Figure Score

This was the first time that the E.F. cagers ever made a triple figure score. Bores was the player that made the score 100-46 a loss for Roseville, as he tipped in the last basket of the game.

A past action shot of Sam Kachaturoff, 12A, and Gary Miller, graduate, Edsel Ford rode Melvindale in '65. Watch again at Melvindale tonight.

This victory ended Edsel's opening game losing streak. They lost to Toledo in 1965 and to Hamtramck in 1964.

On December 2, the cagers played Ann Arbor in a home game, and Tuesday we played Bentley at an away game.

Since wrestling season started, you have probably seen some pretty strange sights. —Like guys eating an ice cube for breakfast, lunch and dinner, even going to the point of starvation.

I asked Jim Moss, 12B, "What would the roughest meet be?"

Jim replied, "All of them."

I proceeded in pestering him by asking if there were any injuries so far.

Jim who has his nose taped, answered, "Everyone gets some injury some time."

Could be wrestling is a rough sport!

My guess, which I hope is up-to-date, will have Tom Mooney, 10B, wrestling in the 95 pound class, Frank Nastase, 11B, in the 103, Bob Skolnik, 11B, in the 127, Bruce Ballnik, 11A, in the 112, Mike Sherman, 11B, in the 120, Jim Moss, 12B, in the 133, Frank Blaskowski, 11B, in the 138, Pat Carmichael, 10B, in the 145, Rod Machak, 12B, in the 154, Kurt Chubner, 12B, or Brian Guffrey, 10B, in the 165, Fred Kemp, 11B, in the 180, and Ron Haney, 11A, in the heavy-weight position.

All-City Football Team

A few weeks ago, on November 17, The Dearborn Guide came out with the All-City football team. The 22 best football players were chosen from all the schools in Dearborn. Of these 22, 8 were from Edsel Ford. Four were on offense and four on defense.

Then a few days after that, we opened up the Detroit News to the Sports Section and saw a picture of coach John D. Davis. The caption read that he had been selected as the High School Coach of the Year. We were really happy to see it. Here's a man who looks like a good coach, talks like a good coach, acts like a good coach, and above all he gets the results of a good coach . . . a good team.

The eight players who made the All-City Guide team were Ken Yungkans, 11B; Ted Grignon, 11B; Dan Schewe, 12B; Craig Peck, 12A; Steve Carson, 12B; Greg Brown, 12B; Paul Smith, 12A, and Sam Kachaturoff, 12A.

Yungkans played defensive end and Brown was a defensive tackle. There are a lot of offensive backs in the league who will testify to their ability, not to mention the guards and tackles who also tried to block this pair. Schewe, a linebacker, ran around stopping touchdowns, either by batting away passes or mauling the runners. Craig Peck played safety, and no quarterback or end was safe while he was in there. He made enough key interceptions to make the offense run instead of pass.

On offense, Kachaturoff made it at center. He was there to make sure that no one got to Ted Grignon, and for that matter, so was Steve Carson.

A wise man once said, "You can always tell who the linemen are; they've got the dirtiest uniforms."

Now we come to Grignon, what can be said that hasn't been said already during the course of the season. He was great. But, one of the big reasons why he did so well was Paul Smith. At split-end, he has the speed, the moves, and the hands to get him, and the ball a long way.

Coach of the Year

Davis Brings Us Honor

. . . Honor to Edsel Ford High School. That is what Coach John D. Davis has brought to our high school.

Coach Davis has been chosen Suburban Coach of the Year by The Detroit News. Commenting upon the subject, Coach Davis insisted that the award should be expressed as an accomplishment of the Edsel Ford coaching staff and team. His name was used because he is head coach. He feels that his assistants, Mr. R. Cornell and Mr. N. Walker, should have their names side by side with his. "When the team wins, everyone wins, the team, the coaches, the school," said Coach Davis.

Coach Davis did not know that he had received the award, until a friend called him. The only contact with the press he had was when he accompanied his quarterback down to the press offices. Coach Davis was then asked to sit for a picture. He figured that all the coaches who had all-suburban players would have their pictures taken for the paper.

Coach of the Year, as far as Coach Davis can surmise, is based upon the team won-lost record of past and present seasons.

"Strong unity and respect for one another were two important reasons for success of the coaching staff and football teams at Edsel," states Davis.

Speaking of the award again, Coach Davis commented, "Although deeply honored, my only regret of the award is that my fellow staff was not honored along with me." Then, with a wink he added, "This is just one more thing Mr. Cornell and Mr. Walker can kid me about."

Our team needs YOUR support. Come to the game tonight at Melvindale and watch the T-Bird cagers soar over the Melvindale Cardinals.
