OK to Boo A Governor

NEW YORK (UPI)—Magistrate Samuel Chringer yesterday dismissed disorderly conduct charges against Gerardo Cartogena, arrested for booing Governor Rockefeller, last October. Chringer ruled that at a political rally men have the right to boo any speaker.

Mother and Son Buried Together

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (UPI)—Mrs. Mathilda Kohler Bahr, 78, and a son she never realized was dead were buried side by side yesterday.

Mrs. Bahr was so ill she was not told her son, Harold, 47, had been killed in an airplane crash March 12 in Argentina. She died Friday, the day his body arrived in San Antonio.

Pity the Umps In Little League

KERRVILLE, Texas (UPI)—Roy Sinclair, player agent for the Kerrville Little League, figures umpires are going to have fits this baseball season.

"We've got triple sets of twins," he said. "And they all have the same name—Ronnie and Donnie Martin, Ronnie and Donnie Miller and Ronnie and Donnie Kahlback."

Horse Collars For City Dudes

CHICAGO (UPI)—Horse collars have made their way back into mail-order catalogs because city folk want them. A spokesman said many city dwellers who never see a horse except on TV are using the collars for framing mirrors and pictures.

"More horse collars are sold to city folk for basement recreation rooms than to farmers for horses," the spokesman said.

Woman Throws 5 Children from Fourth Floor Window

GLASGOW, Scotland (UPI)—Jean Barclay Waddell, a 37-year-old spinster, was charged today with pushing five small children out of the window of her fourth-floor apartment. One of the youngsters died in the plunge and the others were hospitalized.

Miss Waddell stood silently between two policemen as Magistrate James Languir ordered her remanded to a higher court. She offered no explanation.

The woman was accused of pushing Marjorie Hughes, 4, to her death on the sidewalk in Glasgow's grimy Gorbals district. In addition, she was charged with the attempted murder of Frank Lennon, 7; his sister, Margaret, 5; Thomas Devenny, 4; and Daniel McNeill, 5.

Hurled From Window

All five were hurled from the window of the dark-haired woman's two-room apartment yesterday as neighbors watched in horror.

A sixth child, a boy, ran screaming from the apartment as neighbors broke down the door after the children's bodies hit the ground.

appearance and did not speak except to say "Yes" when her name was called.

James Haining, 45, said he had just returned home from work when he heard two sickening thuds outside his first-floor apartment on Toryglen Street.

"I looked out and saw two kiddies lying there," he said.

Sees Children Fall

Haining rushed out to the street, looked up and saw another child plunging towards the concrete pavement from a third-floor window.

"I half caught him on my shoulder before he fell to the ground—but before I could do anything else, I looked up and saw two more kiddies on their way down," Haining said. "I felt so helpless. There was nothing I could do."

The little Hughes girl—her fair hair matted over her face and her gym slip and coat splattered with blood—was dead. Marjorie's four playmates lay motionless nearby—all seriously injured. The McNeill boy was rushed to a hospital unconscious. Doctors may have to operate for brain injuries.

Motive Not Known

Police gave no details why Miss Waddell threw the children out of the window.

End 'Card Game,' Says Jones Conference Urged On Aid for H&M

Gallagher Urges U.S. Dope Study

The formation of a federal committee to study the problem of narcotics addiction has been suggested to President Kennedy by Rep. Cornelius Gallagher of Bayonne.

The committee would include medical, government and law enforcement representatives and would concentrate on the treatment and rehabilitation of drug addicts. It would operate under the direction of the Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare.

SUCH A study has been suggested in a series of editorials in The Jersey Journal.

Gallagher, who outlined his plan in a letter to the President, noted current federal narcotics agencies deal primarily with the criminal TRENTON (UPI)—Senate Majority Leader Walter H. Jones called last night for a conference with New York to end "this legislative card game of out-treeping each other" on plans to rejuvenate the Hudson and Manhattan tubes.

But Jones, R-Bergen, said the issue is likely to be stalled for the next few weeks by vacations of New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller and legislative leaders.

In telephone calls yesterday Jones was able to reach only Speaker Joseph Carlino of the New York legislature. He said Carlino agrees a bi-state meeting between governors and legislative leaders is in order.

New Jersey proposed a bill permitting the Port of New York Authority to buy and rehabilitate the H and M for an estimated $80 million.

Also considered a separate bill to build a $355-million World Trade Center in New York.

Greenville School Construction Start Planned for May

Construction of Greenville's long-delayed Public School 49 should be under way by the first week in May, the Jersey City Board of Education has announced.

The last piece of property on the site has been purchased and the board is moving to advertise for bids on six contracts.

THE BIDS on the project, for which a $3,292,000 bond issue has been raised, are to be returned by April 24 and contracts will be awarded April 27.

The school is to be finished by July, 1962, and ready for the fall term opening.

The building and playground will occupy the entire block by Gates, Garfield, Seaview and Ocean Aves.

ALL BUT THREE buildings on the block were demolished last December, but the board could not move on construction until all legal difficulties had been settled on the remaining three parcels.

Nearly public and parochial schools have been filled beyond capacity for some time and have scheduled many part-time classes. The completion of Currie's Woods Housing Project added to the pupil load.

The new school will have 35 classrooms for 1,150 students. A 600-seat auditorium and a swimming pool are also in the plans.

ERSEY JOURNAL, JERSEY CITY,

New York To London In 2 Hours?

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Kennedy has asked for federal aid in developing a supersonic airliner that could whisk passengers from New York to London in about two hours.

The President's request was almost overlooked. It was contained in his budget message of March 24 — a one-line item asking that the Federal Aviation Agency be given an extra 12 million for fiscal 1962.

Of that sum, $10 million is earmarked for preliminary work on a supersonic Mach 3 transport — a plane capable of flying three times the speed of sound.

Politeness Urged in The Subway

NEW YORK (UPI) — The New York Transit Authority is putting up signs trying to bring courtesy back to the subway tunnels.

The purple and yellow cartoon posters show a clean-cut young man giving up his seat to two ladies, and doffing a plumed helmet.

"Be a knight," the posters urge. "Restore curtesie."

The Transit Authority said "curtesie" is medieval French for politeness, chivalry and general good behavior.

Ike to Write Book, Articles

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (UPI)—Former President Eisenhower will write a series of articles on current affairs and a book on his eight years in the White House.

Eisenhower in a prepared statement Monday said the first of his articles will appear in a magazine.

Phelps Reappointed To Park Board

Phelps Phelps of Jersey City, former U.S. ambassador to the Dominican Republic, was reappointed yesterday as a member of the Palisades Park Commission.

Also among appointments by Gov. Robert B. Meyner was that of H. Lee Moss of Rutherford, renamed to the Bergen County Tax Board.

FRESH LOOK—Lincoln-Mercury Division is offering a fresh look for Springtime in the form of a new luxury compact car—the Comet S-22. The new model of the successful Comet features individually contoured "bucket-type" front seats; a console storage compartment, custom sports-type steering wheel; and special design all-vinyl interior trim. Comet dealers coast-to-coast will be displaying the S-22 by late April.

STATE FEATURE — Montgomery Clift and Donna Reed are seen in "From Here to Eternity", now at State Theater, Jersey City. Co-starring are Burt Lancaster, Deborah Kerr and Frank Sinatra. Associate feature is "On the Waterfront" starring Marlon Brando, Karl Malden, Lee J. Cobb and Eva Marie Saint.

8:00 7 THE RIFLEMAN

When Mark (Johnny Crawford) buys two good horses for $25 each from a frightened horse trader, Lucas (Chuck Connors) is accused of stealing them, since obviously only "hot" horses are going to be sold so cheaply. Lucas is not only accused but sentenced to hang, only to be saved by a series of contrived circumstances.

8:30 2 DOBIE GILLIS

A funny show, based on the wonderful improbability that gentleman millionaire Chatsworth Osborne Jr. (Stephen Franken) is forced to masquerade as "slob and pauper" Maynard G. Krebs (Bob Denver). It all comes about because Maynard remembers just as he and Dobie (Dwayne Hickman) are about to board a bus for military service, that he left the water running in the bathtub at home.

9:00 2 THE TOM EWELL SHOW

This is a good-natured spoof on Candid Camera-type programs. George Fenneman, appears as Randy Rambo, MC, of a TV show called The Prying Eye. The results are pretty funny.

Frank Runs Any Distance Well

Koch Bright Hope for Olympics

By CAS RAKOWSKI

By CAS RAKOWSKI

In spring a young man's fancy lightly turns to love . . . love of track that is.

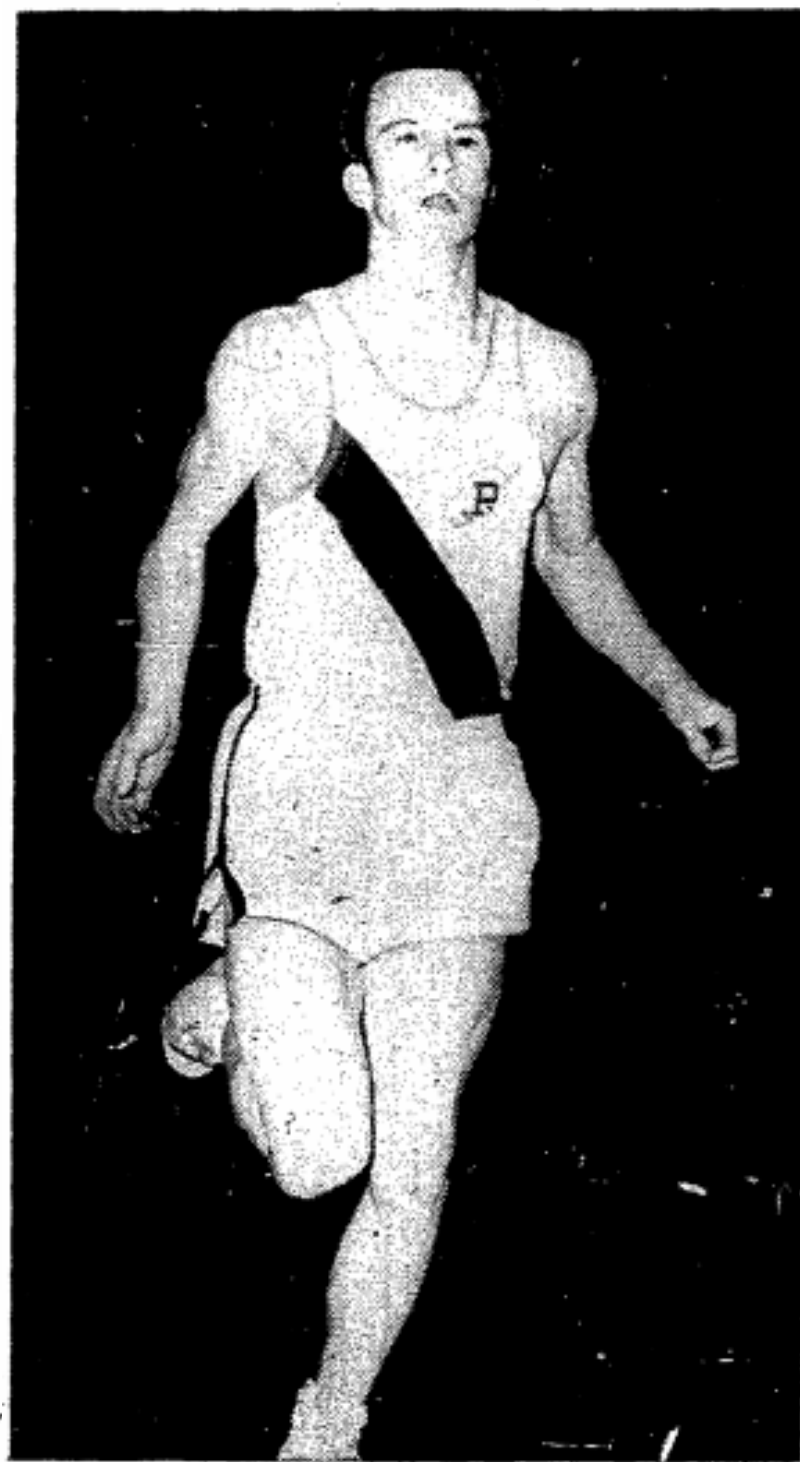

Frank Koch, a senior at St. Peter's Prep, combines a steady diet of running and winning medals that have quite a few track experts predicting he will be a future Olympic great.

A RESIDENT OF Paterson, Koch is a great fan of Dave Sime of Fair Lawn who was an Olympic team member. Both have many qualities in common.

Koch, during the indoor season, is most versatile. "Frank is money in the bank," coach Don Williamson admits. "He is equally effective in any event you place him in. He already has raced and won for me in the 60, 300, quarter mile, 600 and half mile. But Frank is primarily a sprinter."

Koch, with an explosive, fantastic start, usually leads at the first turn. In the outdoor season, Frank will be placed in the 100 and 220 by Williamson. "We know we have 10 points before he even races," Williamson says.

FRANK KOCH

THE CARROT-TOPPED youngster has a host of medals and records to his credit. His 33 seconds in the 300 yard run established a New Jersey Catholic record. A time of 1:14.6 in the Cardinal Hayes meet set a New Jersey as well as meet mark in the 600 yard run. And Frank's 51.3 time in the St. Francis meet in the quarter mile also set another standard.

Frank's track career almost came to an abrupt end when he was injured last season. He didn't compete in indoor meets at all last season and made his presence on the cinders late in the outdoor season.

"I thought Jack Uphaus of my team from last year was terrific," Williamson continues. "But Koch already has broken all but on of Uphaus' marks and seems certain to do topple Jack's outdoor mark in the quarter mile."

BECAUSE OF HIS small size, Frank would be a tremendous man for any college mile relay team. His agility and diminutive size enable him to navigate the turns on bank tracks.

When you talk about Koch you can't forget his academic standings in St. Peter's. Frank ranks fourth in his senior class of 250. His college future just about is set with Notre Dame, Georgetown and Holy Cross vieing for his scholastic and athletic talents.

The coming months will bear much watching for Koch. He will be attempting to lead the St. Peter's mile relay team to the national championships in the Penn Relays. "And we're going to rely very heavily on Frank," Williamson smiled.

Our Science Fair

Several hundred exhibits¹ are arranged on tables in the gymnasium, at Jersey City State College. On view until tomorrow, they have been adjudged the best work produced by Hudson County students for our first Science Fair. Co-sponsored by The Jersey Journal and the State College, this fair brought into competition thousands of students in all grades of the elementary and the secondary schools, public and private.

The honor sought by high school students was the right to represent Hudson County at the National Science Fair in May at Kansas City.

The girl to win this distinction is Lynne Aslescot of St. Dominic Academy who had a superb exhibit demonstrating the use of radioactive tracer elements in charting plant chemistry.

The boy winner is Hugh Muller of St. Aloysius High School with an ingenious electrical-musical instrument of his own invention.

These are the outstanding ones among all the students of the county. All were invited to compete. All needed only the assistance of their schools to give them an equal chance. To have won over so large a field is a high honor for the two students selected. It is an honor, too, for their teachers—both of whom also will be guests at the National Fair. To the winners, congratulations; to those who nearly won, better luck next year.
