Gregory Mortgage OK Arranged

The builder of the Gregory project today planned to obtain the Federal Housing Administration's approval of a mortgage for the project that would enable his concern to start work this week.

Gerald Chanin, vice president of the Taylor International Corp., was to receive a building permit this morning, enabling him to go ahead with the final phase of the mortgage closing. Lack of the permit last Thursday caused the closing to be held up until today.

Housing OK Seen In Senate Kennedy Bill Attacked by Senator Byrd

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Senate was set today to pass a $6 billion housing bill which Sen. Harry F. Byrd, D-Va., attacked as the worst such measure in 25 years of housing legislation.

Senate passage by nightfall appeared certain. But Byrd, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, leveled one of the strongest assaults on the measure in remarks prepared for the final debate.

One of Kennedy's Big Five — The housing bill is one of the "big five" on President Kennedy's list of priority legislation. It was closed to further amendments after administration forces beat back a major challenge in a lengthy session last Thursday.

Byrd, D-Va., said the federal government had been subsidizing or underwriting the housing industry and its allied activities for more than 25 years, with a total outlay by next June 30 of nearly $120 billion.

"I regard the so-called housing bill now before the Senate as the worst bill on this subject ever proposed during the more than a quarter of a century of legislation in this field," he said.

Among other things, the bill includes renewed authorizations for urban renewal, loans for college dormitory construction, public housing, FHA-guaranteed home mortgages, and housing loans for World War II and Korean War veterans.

JFK Uses Crutches In Public

PALM BEACH, Fla. (UPI)—President Kennedy flies back to Washington today, his injured back on the mend but bothersome enough for him to plan continued use of crutches for several more days.

The decision to be seen in public with crutches for the first time in more than six years was a difficult one for the 44-year-old President, whose physical vigor has become somewhat of a political trademark.

Relieves Pressure on Back

But associate press secretary Andrew T. Hatcher notified newsmen that Kennedy would walk with the help of crutches when boarding his Air Force jet transport.

Hatcher said the President, who used the crutches to ease pressure on his lower back during a long weekend of rest at a seaside villa here, would continue using them in Washington.

'Several More Days'

Asked how long this would be, Hatcher said: "It will not be an unreasonable length of time." He said "several more days" would be a fair estimate.

Kennedy, who originally had planned to return Sunday night, prolonged his weekend as long as possible while still arranging to arrive at Washington today to keep a date with Premier Amintore Fanfani of Italy.

Tony Pro Quizzed on Missing Aide

HACKENSACK (UPI) — Controversial Teamsters Union official Anthony (Tony Pro) Provenzano was to be questioned today about the disappearance of Anthony (Three Fingers Brown) Castellito, an officer in Provenzano's local.

Lt. Walter H. Spahr, heading the investigation of Castellito's vanishing act, said Provenzano probably would stick to his story that there was no trouble within Teamsters Local 560 of Hoboken, which he heads. Castellito was secretary-treasurer of the local.

—O—

SPAHR SAID the missing man's relatives all were "in the dark" about the whereabouts of the short, stocky Castellito, who dropped out of sight last Monday after a union meeting in Union City. A 13-state alarm was issued for him.

Castellito, 49, of New Milford, was reported missing by his family Thursday. He has three fingers missing from his right hand and the thumb missing from his left hand. He was believed to be driving his metallic brown Cadillac with New Jersey license plates.

State police entered the search for Castellito Friday. Detectives said he had a long police record dating back to prohibition days. They said he was convicted several times on assault charges.

Catholics Prepare for Ecumenical

ROME (UPI) — Pope John XXIII today presides over Roman Catholic prelates from all over the world charged with arranging the biggest Catholic conclave of the century.

The churchmen belong to the 93-member Pontifical Central Preparatory Commission for the Ecumenical Congress scheduled to be held next year.

THE 1962 CONGRESS will be the first "summit" meeting of the world's Catholic leaders since 1870, and the 21st in the almost 2,000-year history of the church.

The last Vatican ecumenical opened in 1869 and disbanded one year later after approving the dogma of papal infallibility.

A Romance With Sinatra? Rumors Surprise Marilyn

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD — Marilyn Monroe stayed over to attend the christening of John Clark Gable yesterday. She couldn't have been more surprised that there were rumors of a romance with Frank Sinatra. She said he had always been very kind to her, and she wanted to go to his opening and Dean Martin's birthday party at the Sands in Las Vegas.

A few nights before she left for home she had dinner with Henry George Clouzot, the French director. He discussed with her the possibility of making a movie for him in France. "But," said Marilyn, "he didn't tell me what he wanted me to do."

She and 20th Century-Fox agreed to postpone her commitment with them until Nov. 15, and she expects to make the oft-discussed "Rain" for TV before she appears in a movie again.

10:30 7 PETER GUNN

This well-made show has two very amusing scenes. The first, concerning Edie (Lola Albright) and a dachshund puppy, has nothing to do with the story but it's delightful. The second takes place when Pete (Craig Stevens) goes to his contact-of-the-night, an ex-con who is now a short order cook with problems—he doesn't understand the waitress's "code" and he loses every pancake he tries to flip. The case concerns a golf pro who is accused of hit-and-run driving. He says he was framed. Pete's attempts to prove this lead to a very wealthy family.

ROGER MARIS

.... Roger Maris, during his hot homer streak, was discussing his low batting average. The big secret of hitting, he said, is in being able to follow the seams on the ball as the pitch is on the way to the plate. "That's the difference between a .259 hitter like me," said Maris, "and a .359 hitter like Ted Williams. He follows the seams on the ball every time. I follow it about one in four."

Tough Combo to Beat Yanks Bombing, But Fielding Is Keynote of Their Success

By CHARLEY FEENEY

The Yankees are bombing like the Bombers of old but it's significant that the Yankees look like the Yankees of old in the field, too.

Power, plus superb fielding is a tough combo to beat and it also does a lot to a pitcher's confidence as Ralph Terry, first game winner yesterday points out.

—o—

"I COULD HAVE lost, 4-2," Terry said, "but I come out a winner, 2-1. I believe it will make us all better pitchers."

Terry further explained: "On this club a pitcher can make a mistake and it's a good bet one of our fielders will save him."

Terry's support was brilliant. Mickey Mantle took a triple away from Eddie Yost and Roger Maris took homers away from Ken Hunt and Ted Kluszewski. Maris' grab of Hunt's blast in the seventh was a beaut. The Yank rightfielder made a leaping catch, then fell into the seats in right field.

—o—

IN THE SECOND game, Maris swung his mighty bat. He doomed two homers (Nos. 19 and 20) in the 5-1 win for young Roland Sheldon.

Hrebiniak's Slam Leads Fifth Wards

They are Sammy Snead, who seldom has played better, and the young belter from the amateur ranks, Jack Nicklaus.

The Runoff Election: It Is Necessary

When a runoff election is required under circumstances such as Jersey City's, the question often arises: "Is this really necessary?"

The only convincing answer is: "It certainly is! It is the best protection the city can buy to insure itself against domination by an organized minority. It is cheap insurance, too, even though the runoff requirement often will mean spending money for two elections instead of one."

IN JERSEY CITY'S CASE, the question is purely academic. The city only recently adopted Plan C (which includes the runoff requirement) and nothing can be done about changing it before 1965. At that time, Jersey City may change its government again, if it chooses to do so. In that event it could switch to Plan D, which does not have the runoff requirement. (That is what Hoboken has.)

The runoff requirement wrongly is charged with evils which stem from another part of the Faulkner Act, the so-called non-partisan election, which is anything but non-partisan.

This non-partisan provision encourages hopeless candidacies of which Jersey City had many too many last time. One candidate for councilman got less than a hundred votes; two candidates for mayor did not even get 4,000 votes! It is the non-partisan election which needs changing, not the runoff.
