equipped cafeteria. In addition to this, were two commerce rooms, a band room and three science labs. These are complementary to the large school library and the language lab which were already under heavy use.

Dixie Heights well lives up to its academic, social and athletic standards. From the most important standpoint, academic, Dixie has graduated many honor students who have received scholarships to many famous universities.

Dixie has a fine college prep course. Some of its courses are considered to be on the college level, notably the advanced chemistry, the advanced biology and the advanced mathematics courses. Along with this is a complete commercial course and a general course of study in compliance with the Northern Kentucky Vocational School.

Dixie Heights has 125 organizations including Beta Club for students with high scholastic rating; Dramatic Club, Honor Society, Red Cross, Thespians, Library Club, French Club, Latin Club, Spanish Club, JETS, science study club; Student Council, Art Club and Pep Club.

The Student Council plays a great role in the organization of the school. It consists of nine elected representatives from each class. A group of officers to preside over the group are elected by the members themselves. This year the officers are president, Ruthie Robinson; vice president, Basil Drossos; treasurer, Ellen Hart, and secretary, Linda Coyle.

Now we turn to the athletic scene. During half-time at football games the cheers are lead by Linda Herweh, Debbie Haugh, Lissa Woodyard, Darlene Bailey, Dianne Bush, Diane Crucey, Becky Charrington and alternate Dennie Peck, and the crowd settles and listens to the cadence as 53 band members, 38 "Colonelettes" and seven majorettes file onto the field and put on a show directed by George Gartner. The "Colonelettes," a group of high-stepping girls, do crowd-pleasing routines.

Although the team's record is disappointing so far, the little "Colonels" have played well against all opposition and are always a threat, as performance on the field has shown. Head coach Charlie Fugitt has done a fine job this year.

Dixie also participates well in other sports. These include basketball, coached by Roy McKenney; baseball, coached by Conrad Richardson and Jim Molley; track, coached by Dave Browning, and a very successful golf team, coached by Norm Perkins.
