ABOUT THE PLAY

The Skin of Our Teeth is a wise, witty, and wonderful play full of surprises--as contemporary as Op Art, as pungent as the Sunday Editorial page, as meaningful as religion. This fantasy is the story of the Antrobus family's progress through all recorded time and its victories and defeats along the way. The Antrobus family represents mankind--all mankind, from the stone age to the age of anxiety we face today. The message of the play is one of hope. After watching the events on stage, you feel sure that, no matter what happens, mankind will survive by the skin of its teeth.
