Foreword

Perhaps the one idea that encompasses the total endeavor of our life as cadets at Carolina Military Academy is "leadership." We, the members of The Postillion staff of 1967, feel that during the school year there has been sufficient evidence of increased leadership to dedicate our yearbook to this theme.

The cadet corps strives to develop within its ranks not only military leaders, who may go on to higher positions in their efforts to attain world peace, but also renowned scholars, who will make worth-while contributions to the academic and social world, as well as outstanding athletes with strong, healthy bodies, who delight in entertaining millions the world over.

The record of activities as presented in this book should indicate the process by which leadership is developed at C.M.A. and at the same time serve as a reminder of an important training period in life.

In Memoriam

Frank J. Longano, Sr.

Frank J. Longano, Sr., one of the founders of Carolina Military Academy, died 19 May 1966. He was a member of the Board of Trustees of C. M. A. and Vardell Hall, Red Springs, North Carolina. During this past year his influence and guidance have been deeply missed at both institutions.

Born of immigrant parents 17 January 1911, in Cincinnati, Ohio, Mr. Longano was educated in the public schools of Cincinnati and worked his way through college and law school. After serving for several years as an officer in the U. S. Army both within and outside the United States, he returned to law practice in Cincinnati, later becoming an outstanding defense attorney.

His son Frank, Jr. graduated from C. M. A. in 1964; and Jimmie, now a junior, expects to graduate next year.

Colonel Blankinship, President

Colonel Leslie C. Blankinship, founder and president of Carolina Military Academy, is held in high esteem by the entire faculty and cadet corps. Not only does he make a full academic education here possible but also he arranges a fine extracurricular program.

He assures that we have experienced, qualified instructors in academics, military, guidance counseling, and athletics to assist us inside and outside the classroom. Even though he is extremely busy with administrative duties, he always finds time to listen to problems and help find satisfactory solutions.

His sincere interest in education is further manifested by his continuing efforts to establish new schools. Since founding C.M.A. in 1962, he has established a preparatory school and junior college for girls at Vardell Hall, Red Springs, North Carolina, and a preparatory school for girls at The Highlands School in Avon Park, Florida. Furthermore, Colonel Blankinship is known nationally for his interest in military schools. At present, he is president of the National Association of Military Schools, formerly the National Association of NDCC Schools, of which he has held various offices. In addition, he is listed in Who's Who in America and Who's Who in American Education.

We feel very fortunate in having the leadership of such an inspiring man as Colonel Blankinship.

His is a most demanding job.

Staff, We Thank You.

Again this year on behalf of the cadet corps the annual staff wishes to express its appreciation to a group of people who have made life at Carolina Military Academy pleasant and fruitful. Members of the staff at the beginning of C. M. A.'s first year of operation who have remained to the present time have manifested a sincere interest in the academy and in the cadets individually. We realize that it is your dedication and diligence in the bookstore, barbershop, dining room, clothing room, office, infirmary, and on the campus generally that insure our welfare. We sincerely thank you for all your efforts in our behalf.

A sound knowledge of our economic system is essential in all walks of life. Business courses offered at C.M.A. consist of economics, typing, and business math.

The sound of music often fills the air around campus. Marching and concert bands, along with the Royal Indigos Dance Orchestra, are continually working to help develop musical talent and to give the cadet corps and faculty a taste of good music.

The English Department offers thorough instruction in our language. Teachers carefully guide the students toward a greater understanding by stressing vocabulary, grammar, and literature. The regular four years of English and a year of postgraduate work are available, thus further preparing the students for college.

French, Latin and Spanish, each offered as two-year courses, comprise our foreign language department. With the help of records, a language laboratory, and a native Spanish teacher, fluency in speech and interest in foreign cultures are provided.

Very popular with the student body are the reading courses. The department, equipped with a modern laboratory, strives to develop reading skills and to increase vocabulary and dictionary usage.

One of the main objectives of the mathematics department is to help the student develop his power of reasoning. By taking advantage of the elementary and advanced courses taught by experienced instructors, cadets may receive an excellent mathematical background.

The science department of the academy offers courses which lay the foundation for various careers today. By providing further knowledge of plant and animal life and increased understanding of chemistry and physics, the curriculum proposes to equip the student for his adult role in the space age.

The curriculum offered by the social studies department not only gives cadets a general coverage of past events, circumstances, and philosophies that have shaped and molded the cultures of our world but also an understanding of the present political, social, and economic structure.

Sgt. Benson Gains Attention of Cadets

During the past year the military program has changed from National Defense Cadet Corps to the Reserve Officers' Training Corps. Since the Cadet Corps R.O.T.C. program is affiliated with the U.S. Army, two army men have been assigned to teach military classes each day except Sundays.

The entire cadet corps on parade forms a battalion, which consists of the battalion commander, his staff, and three companies each having its own commander. Companies A and B are composed of two platoons each having a lieutenant as its leader; whereas, Band Company has only one platoon. Each platoon has four squads with a staff sergeant as its leader. Each cadet knows his squad leader and learns to respect him as he lives and works closely with the squad to make the cadets function as a team. Well-trained squads build efficient platoons and in turn an honor battalion such as ours has been each year since the academy was founded in 1962.

Sgt. Benson is an important man in all phases of cadet life.

Band Company, which is composed of members of the corps who are players of musical instruments in the marching band, is an important part of the military program. Although the band does not actually participate in the military competition, it must learn the techniques of drilling. Cadets in the band not only have to know all military procedures but also must learn to drill as a regular marching band. The marching band plays on all field exercises and takes part in the pass-in-review.

What has Cadet Ellis on his mind?

Field Day, 28 April 1966, finally arrived. Everyone was ready for the final hours of military competition. Companies, platoons, squads, and individuals were prepared for the final showdown. It was a hot, sunny day and a happy one for most of the cadets. A Company was presented with the honor cord for its persistent effort and hard work. All cadets were filled with joy as they marched toward their barracks for the last time.

Military Ball -

The Carolina Military Academy gymnasium was the scene of the annual Military Ball on 18 March 1966 with about two hundred cadets, their dates, and other special guests in attendance.

An ante-bellum theme was evidenced by dimly-lit antique lanterns hung throughout the gym. Beneath these were miniature white picket fences garlanded with red roses and greenery. Cafe tables were arranged around the dance floor for cadets and their guests. Facades of colonial homes formed an appropriate background for the decorations.

Cadet John Burgess of Fayetteville, Battalion Commander, led the Grand March escorting Miss Candy Horton of Raleigh, who was crowned Queen of the Ball.

C.M.A. Athletes Enjoy an Entertaining Evening

On 2 May 1966 C.M.A. held a banquet for its athletes, who had done a fine job during the previous eight months, at the Holiday Inn in Lumberton with Jim Beatty, a U.N.C. graduate and the first man in the world to break the four-minute mile, as speaker of the evening. Awards were presented to the most outstanding athletes with Benny Bundy receiving the Most Valuable Football Player Award. Other cadets and their awards were Dewey Poole, Most Improved Football Player Award; Richard DeLorme, Most Valuable Offensive Back Award; Tommy Bullock, Most Valuable Defensive Back Award; John Flanagan, Most Valuable Offensive Lineman Award; Ronnie Humphries, Most Valuable Defensive Lineman Award; Jimmie Williams, Best Blocker Award. Certificates for lettering in football were also awarded.

A Company Has a Delightful Party

Cadets Jeffreys, Campbell, and Mercer put on a show.

On 23 April 1966, members of A Company treated themselves to a delightful dance. The rifle range room was artistically decorated by a committee headed by Cadets Mike Campbell and John Jeffreys assisted by Sgt. Benson. It was changed into an astounding replica of a rathskeller. Music was provided by an enormous collection of records. Tables and chairs were provided for cadets who had dates. Since the students were allowed to wear civilian clothes, it was really something different.

On 15 October 1966 Carolina Military Academy held its fifth annual homecoming football game and dance. It was preceded by a parade through Maxton by the entire cadet corps. Saturday afternoon our football team met its defeat by succumbing to Davidson 23—14. The theme for the dance was "Autumn," and the gym was appropriately decorated with trees, cornstalks, and scarecrow. The cadets and their dates danced to the music of The Charms of Greensboro.

Halloween Carnival

On 29 October 1966 the second annual Halloween Carnival was a great success, thanks to the efforts of the C. M. A. Woman's Club, with Mrs. Glenn Smith in charge of arrangements. Booths attracting special attention were Lts. Howell and Smith's Cadet Roulette; Col. and Mrs. Blankinship's hoop-tossing booth; the bottle and ball booth operated by Miss Gainey, Mrs. McGill, and Mrs. Sara Smith; and Mrs. Cotton's goody shop. Thrills were added by Mrs. Bennett's penny-pitching booth, Sgt. Benson's nail-driving booth, and Col. Cook's performance as the barker. Mrs. Glenn Smith's discotheque, of course, was popular among the cadets who watched the go-go girls.

A talent show with entries from the three companies was held. Victorious was B Company with a performance by Cadets Christy and Campbell.

Finally, the Pem broke State College Singers, under th direction of Professor Bohrer, delighted th cadets with both popular and folk songs.

The Talent Show . . .

A talent show was presented on December 11, 1966, in the Carolina Military Academy auditorium. The program included five skits put on by various students in Lieutenant Howell's senior English classes and one skit directed by Private Gamble of Lieutenant Smith's sophomore English class.

In addition, a group from B Company, Triple Trouble, played two musical pieces, and The 69'ers of Band Company played three.

Winners of the show were Lt. Jeffrey's "Monday Morning in Maloney's Court," first place, and The 69'ers, second.

Christmas Dance Takes

"Christmas in Outer Space" was the theme of the annual holiday dance held on the campus of Carolina Military Academy 10 December 1966, when the Corps of Cadets entertained formally.

The setting for the event was the school's gymnasium where elaborate decorations including an improvised parachute ceiling depicting outer space had been installed. Heavenly bodies, satellites, and lighted Christmas trees in hanging positions completed the decorations.

Throughout the evening the group danced to the music of The Charms of Winston-Salem, North Carolina. A table centered with a Christmas arrangement provided refreshments of Russian tea and party sweets for the cadets and their guests.

Special guests included girls from Vardell Hall, Red Springs, and friends of the academy.

Activities

Organizations

The C.M.A. Band, under the direction of Lt. Fred Ferguson, Jr., has performed on numerous occasions, both in and out of state, and has received many honors.

Band participation offers diversion from the rigorous academic and military program by allowing the student not only to develop musical talent but also to form new friendships and to share in the cooperative spirit of the group.

Last summer one of the highlights of band activities for five members was a three-week tour of Mexico. Cadets Mike Brooks, Freddie Gibson, Vince Moseley, Clarence Phillips, and Will Shepherd were chosen to travel with the Mexican Friendship Tour Band, sponsored by Purdue University and conducted by Lt. Ferguson, who also performed on occasions. June 11 thirty band members chosen from high school students throughout the nation, along with eight chaperones, left for Mexico after a week's practice at Purdue.

Interesting points visited included the cities of Monterrey, Victoria, Mexico City, Acapulco, and Zacatecas. The band played various kinds of music ranging from the Mexican national anthem to New Orlean's Dixie-land. A special concert was given for an orphanage at Cuernavaca. While in Zacatecas Cadets Phillips and Brooks resided with Lt. Ferguson in the Governor's Mansion.

After the Mexican tour, Cadet Shepherd joined four hundred fifty young musicians at the Purdue Summer Band Camp. Through audition he was given the lead alto sax position in the top Dance Band. He also played clarinet in the Honors Band.

The Drama Club, under the sponsorship of Mrs Blankinship and Lt. Howell, presents several interesting plays each year. "Of Mice and Men" was produced May 15, 1966, here in the C.M.A. auditorium. The three-act play was written by John Steinbeck and was directed by Lt. Howell. Many long hours were put into the effort to produce the entertaining performance. Only three cadets out of ten had had acting experience beforehand but the play was a success.

On December 11, 1966, under the direction of Mrs Blankinship and Lt. Howell, the club presented, during the talent show, five one-act plays, which were acted by and directed by members of the senior English classes.

Enthusiastic support is given the club by all its members. At home ball games one may see club members selling hot dogs, soft drinks, and popcorn.

The purpose of the dramatics club at C.M.A. is to help students develop poise and acting ability.

Monogram Club, an Honor for Athletes

The Monogram Club is composed of cadets who have lettered in a varsity sport. The cadet corps is very proud of its monogram club because it reflects the efforts of cadets to be leaders in many fields. The club is comprised of players of football, basketball, cross-country, baseball, track, tennis, and members of the rifle team.

Qualifications for membership are exact. Varsity and junior varsity football players must play in sixty percent of all quarters. Varsity and junior varsity basketball players must play in sixty percent of all games. Cross-country runners must average at least seventh place in all meets and participate in eighty percent of all meets. Baseball athletes must participate in sixty percent of all games with the exception of pitchers. Each track runner must score on the average of one point per meet, and he must participate in eighty percent of all meets. Each rifle team member must place in the top five of ninety percent of all meets.

The club sponsored a candy drive under the direction of Athletic Director Joe Creech. The sizable sum netted was used to put heat in the gym and to make additional improvements for the athletic department.

National Honor Society Honors Scholars

The Pen and Sword Chapter of the National Honor Society of Secondary Schools at Carolina Military Academy is composed of cadets who maintained an average of at least eighty-five during the semester with no or only one subject grade dropping as low as eighty during the month. Besides scholarship, traits considered for membership include character, service, and leadership.

During the fall semester twenty-five cadets gained membership in the local chapter and were afterwards honored by the school. Acting as advisor to the group is Lt. Glen Smith of the English department.

Leadership Is Developed Through

The varsity squad of Carolina Military Academy was composed of several new boys with only a few returning lettermen. Head Coach, Russ Cotton, led his new players into a number of thrilling games. The big linemen were drilled on their many duties by Line Coach, Larry Wittenburg. Players with aches and pains were cared for by Trainer and End Coach, Jim Coble, who was aided by managers Dickie Joyner and Bryan Hovey. Our junior varsity team was coached by Lt. Alex McCallum.

Gains New Players

Spider,
I really did enjoy you teaching us yesterdays. You ought to be a teacher. Don't know how I would have got th far through coaches class if it hadn't be for you humor. I doubt if I'll see y again after this year but I want t wish you the best of luck in the futu and I hope you get everything you want.
Best of luck,
Charles Warrin

Basketball Team

The varsity basketball team, coached by Capt. Creech and Lt. Whiteley, has produced many exciting games for the cadets and visitors. Playing at school, as well as away, the team always shows good sportmanship. C. M. A. cadets are very proud of their basketball team, for it represents the fast-moving spirit of the whole corps.

Sandhills Community College captured the championship of the fourth annual C. M. A. Invitational Tournament by defeating the Methodist College freshmen 96-77 on 21 January at C. M. A. Southeastern Community College took consolation honors earlier, topping C. M. A. by 65-61. During the game Albert Land scored 29 and Mike Mills 17 for C. M. A.

The 1966-67 basketball squad: Kneeling are Mills, Mackie, and Walker. Standing are Coach Creech, Mitchner, Papich, Lumsden, Land, Johnson, Altobellis, Hoover, and Coach Whiteley.

Track Builds Inspiring

Harry Froneberger (center) and Jimmie Williams receive congratulations from Athletic Director Creech as they accept the second place trophy in the C. M. A. Invitational Track Meet.

The track team was composed of about twenty cadets under the leadership of Coaches Dodd and Wittenburg. Our track meets took us to many places, such as Charlotte, Southern Pines, Durham, and Chapel Hill. The track team also held its own invitational at C. M. A. in which nine teams participated. Our team placed second in this meet. The purpose of the track team is to build strong bodies and minds in our cadets.

On your mark. Get set. Go!

Lt. Wittenburg laments to Capt. Dodd, "It doesn't look too good now, coach."

Minds, and Spirits

Springtime Brings Baseball Thrills

Head Baseball Coach Tom Whiteley made a great team out of his cadets this year even though most of the members were first-year players. He was helped on and off the field by Assistant Coach Cotton.

Many weeks had to be devoted to strenuous practice; but before the end of the season, the team was operating smoothly. All the boys exhibited a cooperative spirit and a high degree of sportsmanship.

Coaches Russ Cotton and Tom Whiteley discuss the team.

Another run for C.M.A.

Rifle Team

One of our varsity sports that we are always proud of is the rifle team. This year's team has by far proved to be the best since the team's establishment in 1962. With only one returning letterman, Bobby Miller, the team has picked up five first-year cadets, Johnny Nobles, Bill Davis, Dickie Wilson, Rusty Ward, and Charles Padgett, complete a six-man team. All of those boys shoot above average, but Bobby Miller has proved his excellence. The team is under the experienced leadership of Capt. Humbert and Sgt. Slusser.

Rifle team members are Davis, Wilson, Nobles, Ward, Coach Captain Humbert, Padgett, and Miller.

Junior Varsity Sports

John Kellogg prepares to shoot.

The junior varsity basketball team, under the direction of Coach Joe Creech, helps prepare the boys for the varsity squad, which they hope to make the following year.

Even though they do not play in any major games, these cadets enjoy competition and thrills and at the same time receive valuable training.
