

Alton Ends Kahoks' Home Gym Jinx, 80-70

By DON PLARSKI
Telegraph Sports Editor
COLLINSVILLE — It's not true. Snakes don't really thrive in the Collinsville High School gymnasium.

It had been a snake pit for Alton since the 1950-60 season when Sherrill Hanks' Redbirds turned trick on the Kahok floor.

Friday night the Redbirds, nine seasons later, won another one on the Collinsville floor. The score was a convincing 80-70.

"It's the best game we've played in my five years at Alton," said a jubilant Ralph Sterrett, the Alton coach.

Pinned down further, Sterrett admitted it's the best game any team has ever played for him. The young, likeable coach had had some dandy clubs while headman at Kirksville, Mo., where his teams were the powerhouses.

"I told people to hang on, we'd be there," said Sterrett in the noisy Alton dressing room where players slapped each other on the backs and kidded each other in sort of a dazed, bug-eyed fashion that is brought on by the end of a nine-year jinx.

Sterrett was perhaps as dazed as his players.

"We ran our patterns better," he said to anyone who wanted to listen. "We played good defense and we hit."

Hit the Redbirds did. The final figures revealed the running Redbirds fired away at a 51 per cent clip with 28 baskets in 55 attempts.

Twenty eight of Alton's points came from Larry Hardimon, who's celebrating the 4th of July six months early the way he's been hitting.

Coming off the Carbondale Holiday Invitational Tournament where he was the leading scorer with 97 points in four games, the six-foot forward-guard zeroed in 10 field goals and eight of nine free throws.

The poker-faced senior saved his best until the last period when he popped in 11 of Alton's 25 points as the Redbirds refused to knuckle under the zone press applied by the frantic Kahoks.

Hardimon wasn't the only jinx-breaker. There was 6-5 Stan Burton, who "found" himself at Carbondale. He continued his steady improvement by hitting 22 points against the Kahoks. He netted eight baskets in 10 tries and paired them with six free throws.

The tell-tale facts reveal Burton got five of his baskets by grabbing five rebounds off the offensive backboards and showing them back in for field goals.

Big Mike Jeffries, stymied by personal fouls (he fouled out with 5:48 left to play and Alton ahead 66-54), nevertheless made his 6-3, 215-pound frame felt while he lasted. He managed 12 points before departing and was not intimidated by the presence of Collinsville's 6-8 Bob Shapiro.

There was the work of the two 5-10 guards, Terry Middleton and Ron (Spider) Caldwell. They consistently beat the Kahok press with deft ball handling, hit the open man (Hardimon) and played sticky fingers on defense.

Gary Hagen and Ed Hightower must come in for praise. Actually, Hagen started at center but soon left for the taller Burton. Hagen returned later to drop in four valuable free throws as he appears to be getting rid of the football kinks that earned him All-State honors.

Hightower spelled Middleton and Caldwell and lost none of the ballhandling efficiency so necessary against the Kahok press.

It was the second win over Collinsville by Alton in less than a week. You'll remember the Redbirds whipped the Kahoks in the third place game at Carbondale Saturday by 15 points, 78-63.

A little bit of history was made with the Kahok loss Friday night. It was the third straight defeat of Vergil Fletcher club. Who can remember the last time a Fletcher-coached club lost three straight?

The Redbirds had to put it all together to accomplish the trick on the Collinsville floor. One vital part of the success is found in the rebounds where the Redbirds pulled down 32 errant shots to 18 for the Kahoks.

Collinsville had the edge in rebounds at the end of the first half, 13-12, but Alton took command the last two quarters to out-board the purple and white-clad cagers, 20-6.

"We felt we could beat them," said Sterrett. "The kids were ready. That win at Carbondale did a lot of good."

Shapiro and Sam LaFrank were most troublesome to the Redbirds. Shapiro got most of his baskets by taking low passes from Fletcher or Caselli and dropping in the short shots. He wound up high scorer for the Kahoks with 22 points.

But, it was LaFrank who led his team in rebounding and caused the Redbirds some early consternation. His seven points in the first quarter enabled the Kahoks to gain a 15-15 tie just seconds before the end of the period only to have Hardimon hit a short jumper to put Alton in front, 17-15.

"LaFrank was the best Collinsville player on the floor," Sterrett said. "He was everywhere."

One player who wasn't everywhere was Algis Tervydis, a 6-3 forward and the team's leading scorer. He spent much of the game on the bench. Apparently he's in Fletcher's doghouse.

"He's just not doing the job expected of him," said Fletcher.

Tervydis finished with six points, four of them coming in the last quarter when he got back in action.

Shapiro's five baskets gave Collinsville life in the second quarter. Down by six points, 35-29, the Kahoks rushed back in the last two minutes of the half to take a 38-37 lead at halftime when Kevin Brennan hit a bucket just before the buzzer.

Collinsville took a 40-38 lead second into the second half. Alton came back with a seven-point spurt ignited by Hardimon's basket. Jeffries hit two free throws but a second later picked up his fourth foul and Sterrett quickly yanked him. Burton pulled down an offensive rebound, went up, hit, was fouled, made the free throw and the Redbirds were in front, 45-40. They were never caught again.

Jeffries came back in shortly before the end of the third quarter as Alton headed into the last period with a 55-53 lead.

Alton opened the last quarter with a bang. Hardimon got a basket and a free throw. Burton got another rebound basket, Middleton drove and hit and Hardimon canned two free throws.

Collinsville was finished even though Jeffries left with much of the last period to be played. Hagen filled in nicely and Hardimon took up the slack.

"They simply overpowered us, outshouted us, outshot us and outplayed us," said Fletcher as he sat in the deserted Kahok dressing room with another young basketball-playing son, Mark. "If they play as well all the time as they played against us, nobody will beat them."

Collinsville hit 42 per cent of its shots with 24 baskets in 57 tries. The Kahoks had 10 turnovers to 11 for Alton.

The win upped Alton's record to 6-4 as it heads into a road game tonight at Breese against Mater Dei, a club with a 6-5 record.

Collinsville is now 8-4. In the conference, the Kahoks are 2-2 while Alton is 2-1.

Edwardsville's unbeaten Tigers rolled to their ninth straight basketball victory here, including four in a row in Southwestern Conference play, by thumping Belleville West, 76-56, Friday night.

The Tigers, after leading comfortably at halftime, 37-20, placed four of their starters in double figures.

Jerry Schwear's 26 markers were the game's high, however. Mark Kroenig led the Maroons with 23 points.

The loss left the Maroons with a 3-5 record for the season and 1-4 in the conference.

Althoff Hands Explorers 68-56 Setback

BELLEVILLE — Coach Jerry Koehler's Belleville Althoff Crusaders whipped Marquette, 68-56, in a Bi-State Conference basketball game played here Friday night.

Marquette took a 21-16 first quarter commanded but found itself tied, 25-25, at the intermission. The Crusaders held a 46-31 third period edge.

Althoff was led by Jim Winter, who hit 12 field goals and nine free throws for 33 points.

The Explorers had Greg Schulz and Mike Ryan in double figures. Schulz registered 21 points and Ryan 18.

It was the first conference contest for both teams, while it was Althoff's sixth win to go with only two losses and Marquette's second setback in seven starts.

The Explorers entertain Assumption of East St. Louis at their gym tonight.

Dan DeGerlia Hits, Oilers Win, 51-49

By JIM BELL
Telegraph Sports Writer
WOOD RIVER — Nobody could accurately name when it's last been that a basketball team from these parts actually put together a three-game winning streak, but few cared so long as the fact became a reality.

And that it did here Friday night when Wood River's Oilers hung on to slip by East St. Louis, 51-49, in a Southwestern Conference shootarama at Memorial Gymnasium.

With 2:55 remaining in the game, Dan DeGerlia of the Oilers took an inbound pass, raced the length of the floor against an East St. Louis defense that was spread from here to you to score what became the clincher.

DeGerlia's bucket broke a 47-all tie and put the Oilers in front to stay, although they were threatened several times during the hectic, warming seconds.

Shortly thereafter, the black-haired senior forward came within a whisker of wearing the goat's horns. Twice — first at 0:44 to go and again at 0:08 — he was given bonus opportunities and blew both of them.

Those missed free throws could've possibly given Coach Bob Knight's struggling crew a four-point breach that would've been about the same as a million at that particular point.

Each time the hungry Flyers came off the boards in possession and with better-than-even chances of either sending it in to overtime or winning it.

But Coach Pick Dehner's East Siders cracked, twice throwing the ball away in those pressure cooker moments as Wood River stalled away precious time whenever it got possession.

The score was tied 11 times and the lead exchanged hands another half dozen in the close-all-the-way contest, which meant Wood River's third triumph in a row, its first in conference play for a 1-3 record and its fourth to go with six defeats overall.

Quarter leads bounced back and forth between the two but Wood River got the most important one — the last. East St. Louis led at the end of the first, 19-18, but the Oilers were on top at the half, 28-27. The Flyers led at the end of the third, 38-36.

It was East St. Louis' third straight defeat, duplicated Wood River's 1-3 conference mark and lowered its seasonal tab to 5-4.

Last year the Flyers won both both meetings between the two 69-36 at home and 65-52 at Memorial Gymnasium.

Neither team could break away into the clear, and the largest lead any one of the two held was a five-point difference.

At the outset of the second half, when Wood River was colder than the 10-above temperature outside, the Flyers led, 33-28.

That was when slim, 6-foot-4 Clem West came off the Oiler bench to give his team that needed "oomph" in the clutch. Up to that time, the Oilers had missed a half dozen shots in a row and were rapidly fading. West came in just at the right moment, scoring five of his seven points for the night, to keep Wood River alive. He got his first bucket at the 4:27 mark of the third which also represented the Oilers' first up to that time.

West's third bucket of the night, in the fourth quarter, came again at a psychological time with only 3:43 to go. He shoveled-up a two-pointer from the pivot to tie it up at 45-45, keeping the Flyers from getting away.

Finley Teasley of the Oilers, a young gent who is showing welcome promise to his Kansas-imported coach, followed by converting a two-shot foul on Tony Johnson's misdemeanor.

East St. Louis countered immediately with Dennis Brooks getting a tipper from underneath, knotting the game for the 11th and last time. That was with 3:10 left.

DeGerlia then got on his horse, raced the length of the floor for his two-pointer and the difference, although the hollow house didn't realize it would be with almost a full three minutes to play.

East St. Louis broke away from the Oilers as if it was going to blow the Oilers out of their own hall, racing up an 8-0 lead.

Terry Benton, who fouled out in the third; Larry Jenkins; Brooks and Johnson all hit in a row before the Oilers even mustered a point.

But, as if following the script, the Oilers bounded back with eight of their own while shutting off the Flyers. Roy Morris, Dwight Watts and Teasley hit twice to tie it up at 8-8 apiece.

Thereafter, it was again knotted at 10-14-21-23-24-26-40-43-45 and 47 while the lead went back and forth as neither one could take command.

One of the game's oddities occurred in the first half. Neither team had a one-and-one bonus opportunity during the first 61 minutes of play, which is a rarity.

Poor free throw shooting doomed the Flyers. They hit but three of 13 chances from the line while out-gunning their hosts afield, 23-20.

The Oilers wouldn't win any kewpie dolls from the line, either, but they did manage to filter through 13 of 22, which decidedly made the difference in this Southwestern Conference meeting.

Teasley led all scorers with 20 points, upping his point output to 64 for the Oilers' last three games, a remarkable upsurge over his earlier game productions.

He combined seven field goals with six free throws for his game high count. DeGerlia chipped in 11, while the remainder of the Oiler line up was well-balanced: West 7, Watts and Morris six apiece.

Johnson, the willowy Flyer center with snakey arms, paced the East St. Louisians with 17 points on eight field goals and a gifter.

The Flyers shot better than the Oilers, bagging 23 of 49 for a 46.9 shooting percentage. Wood River hit 20 of 53 for 37.7. The Oilers had a rebounding edge of 27-21. The Flyers were guilty of 14 errors while the Oilers had half that many.

Ohio State Top Team

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Ohio State's potent young Buckeyes, firmly entrenched into the college football world after their Rose Bowl triumph over Southern California, looked forward today to a year . . . or possibly two . . . of continued dominance.

The Buckeyes, named national champions by a wide margin Friday in the final Associated Press poll of sports writers and sportscasters, will return all but four of the 22 starters who paved the way to a 10-0 finish capped by a 27-16 conquest of then No. 2 Southern Cal.

Thirteen of the 22, including quarterback Rex Kern, are sophomores, making the future brighter than ever for Coach Woody Hayes.

Ohio State, which last won the national championship 15 years ago, received 44 of the 49 first place votes cast in the final AP ballot. The Buckeyes got 968 points, to 782 for runner-up Penn State, the only other unbeaten, untied major team.

The 11-0 Nittany Lions, who edged Kansas 15-14 in the Orange Bowl New Year's Night, moved up from the No. 3 spot they held in the next-to-last poll, conducted at the close of the regular season, Texas, 9-1, after trouncing Tennessee 36-13 in the Cotton Bowl, nailed the third spot, with Southern California, 9-1-1, falling to fourth.

Penn State and Texas each received two first place votes. Arkansas, which jumped from ninth to sixth place, behind Notre Dame, picked up one. Arkansas wound up 10-1, upsetting Georgia 16-2 in the Sugar Bowl, and Notre Dame, which didn't go to a bowl was 7-2-1. The Irish were seventh in the next-to-last poll.

Kansas, 9-2, Georgia, 6-1-2,

Missouri, 8-3, and Purdue, 8-2, complete the final Top Ten. Kansas was No. 6, Georgia No. 4, Missouri No. 16 and Purdue 11th before the bowls.

Missouri made the big jump following an impressive 35-10 Gator Bowl victory over then 12th ranked Alabama, which slipped to No. 17. Tennessee and Oklahoma also dropped out of the Top Ten.

Fourteen of the Top Twenty in the last regular season poll played in bowl games and eight were beaten.

Southern Methodist and Louisiana State, unranked before setting Oklahoma and Florida State, respectively, in post season scraps, moved up to Nos. 14 and 19.

The final AP poll was taken after the bowl games for the second time because of the sumo showdown between Ohio State and Southern California and the fact that nine of the Top Ten teams had post-season games.

The final Top 20, with first place vote in parentheses, season records, including bowl games, and total points. Points awarded for first 15 picks on basis of 20-18-16-14-12-10-9-8-7-6-5-4-3-2-1.
