Trapper Wins Essay Contest

Mark Wohlgemuth, a junior at Fort Vancouver High School, recently received a prize of $10 for his first place essay in the Clark County Bar Association's Law Day essay contest.

The theme for Mark's award-winning paper was "No Man is Above the Law and No Man is Below the Law." The Clark County Bar Association chose the title for the contestants as is the custom for the annual contest.

A banquetheld on May 1 at the Quay Restaurant in Vancouver honored Mark and the second and third place winners, Bruce Ableidinger from Battleground High School and Karen Schmidt, who attends Hudson's Bay High School. Bruce and Karen also received checks of $5 each for their papers.

The Multhomah County District Attorney George Van Hoomissen was the speaker at the banquet.

The Clark County Bar Association is made up of attorneys and police, practicing and employed throughout the area.

MARK WOHLGEMUTH

Following the announcement and coronation of the queen, Kris was presented with a dozen long-stemmed red roses by Junior Class President Dave Camp and then honored with the Queen's dance.

Sponsored jointly again this year, "Showers of Flowers" was held from 8:30 pm to 11:30 pm in the Columbia River cafetorium. The 190 couples danced to the music of the Notables from Gresham, Oregon, and were entertained by Micky Shaughnessy, a stand-up comedian. Caily decorating the room was a colorful array of paper flowers.

The arrangements for the prom were the combined efforts of the Junior classes from both Fort and Columbia River, and it was presented in honor of the graduating seniors.

Pin Assembly Honors Seniors

May 19, the Student Council presented the student body with a varied assembly that consisted of awards and a movie.

Starting the assembly was the Senior Hall of Fame. Presented by members of the LOG staff, the girls and boys chosen for each of the fifteen categories were called to the stage and given the first copies of the Hall of Fame.

Awards for Quill and Scroll, Band, PepBand, Orchestra, Choir, Swing Choir, Rally Squad and Drama were presented to deserving seniors by the respective advisors.

Topping off the assembly was a silent movie filmed by Mr. Bill Click. It showed just what goes on when the Student Council decides they have more to do than clean up the campus litter. When the council decided to see just what's happening at the Pharmacy they are stopped short by Mr. Marvin Cummings. But as usual the council finds a way to solve the problem. And they neatly package and hustle him off to the public hunting ground, After a few more adventures the council once again returned back to Fort and the litter.

Senior Pam Stair's interest in foreign affairs proved rewarding, as she was selected one of the top 100 from 40,000 participants in a recent United Nations test.

Through Fort's International Relations Club Pam was able to take the test which was scheduled early in March. After studying a book on UN functions, agencies and future policies, she was required to complete the fifty multiple choice questions about the book and to answer five essay questions.

Because Pam was a finalist in the contest, Fort will receive a subscription to the UNESCO courier, and Mr. John Akers, adviser for IRC, will receive the VISTA magazine.

If Pam is chosen as one of the two winners she will be flown to New York for a tour of the UN and will be presented money for the use of school or travel from Arthur Goldberg, US ambassador to the

WIAA Inefficient Voices Trapper

As you know, last May 13 the sub-district track meet was held at Columbia River High School. Being held simultaneously was a Stage Band contest at Bremerton, Wash. Several students from Fort belong to both organizations, so the school administration made the choice that the Stage Band competition would be attended by those students with conflicting schedules.

I believe this is quite unfortunate, since the basic goal of high school is to provide each individual student with a broad liberal education. Unfortunately, many extracurricular activities that are planned throughout the year to give the student this education do conflict, leaving the student the hard choice between two or more

After my initial shock, I embarked on an investigation to find who was at fault. During my research, I stumbled onto an organization by the name of the Washington Interscholastic Activities Association. It seems that the WIAA has, more or less, complete charge of activities at the state level.

When an organization wants to hold an activity, they apply to the WIAA for its sanction. After checking to make sure that it meets some basic requirements, the WIAA gives the activity its stamp of approval and lists the date in the Washington Interscholastic magazine, official spokesman for the WIAA. This is the way that the Bremerton Stage Band Contest was OK'ed as an activity.

In the case of the track meet, the WIAA directly sponsors the state track meet, of which the sub-district and district meets are directly related. Researching further, I found that the WIAA, until five years ago, ran under the title of the Washington Interscholastic Athletic Association. I believe that the combining of interscholastic athletics and interscholastic activities (such as music and drama) is a good thing for the state, but I don't think that the WIAA has evolved to the point where it can successfully handle both athletics and activities. Last fall, Henry Rybus, executive secretary to the WIAA, stated in a coaches magazine, "the philosophy of this Association has been and always will be that athletics in the High School and Jr. High level must provide the largest variety of good educational experiences possible for the largest number of students." I know how valuable athletics are, but I feel that the WIAA has degraded other educational activities to a secondary role behind athletics.

I do applaud the efforts of the WIAA on coordinating state-level activities, but I hope that the WIAA could evolve to where it could meet the high demands of extracurricular activities. I know that it is impossible to keep from conflicts, but by offering or suggesting dates, instead of just OK'ing applications, the WIAA might be able to curb much of the confusion and tension that exists in the state.

Gabi's Good-bye Thanks Students Dear Trappers,

Time for graduation comes along and the seniors say good-bye. Most of them will keep contact with Fort and perhaps return sometimes to refresh old memories. I will return to Germany and keep thinking of the wonderful time I had during my stay here and tell my friends about you and your school. In this letter I take the opportunity to thank you. Thank you for your interest, your smiles and the help you offered many times. Thanks to the faculty that helped me over my language problems when I came here first and gave me so much understanding all year around. I say good-bye with the hope to return sometime and meet some of you again. One thing for sure, I shall never forget all my friends I met and always think of Vancouver as of my second dearest home

MAY 26, 1967 YMCA Youth Legislature Offers Valuable Experience Members' Interest

By Susie Millar

Students being able to voice their ideas and opinions is one of the freedoms essential in the development of the generation of tomorrow. This point was emphasized and excercised again and again at the annual YMCA Youth Legislative at the Capitol in Olympia, May 11-14.

The students who attended from Fort were the only ones attending from the whole city of Vancouver. This was thought of as a misfortune for all Vancouver Youth. The delegation felt that the knowledge and experience gained was of an unquestionable value and that it was indeed unfortunate that the city of Vancouver seemed unaware of what was taking place at their own state capitol.

The YMCA Youth Legislative is emphasized throughout the state as one of the finest opportunities for youth to express themselves. The group is the only group in the State which is permitted to use the Capitol in the manner that it does. The students take over the offices, duties, and se ats of all the Legislators, including the Governor.

Brian Beall, Jim Buck, Linda Masic, Susie Millar and Pam Nystrom firmly agreed that future emphasis on this program by the city and schools is essential. They also agreed that citizens support of a YMCA would be the key to attaining this goal.

Seniors' Thoughts Vary Graduation Advances

By Vicki Armstrong

With the last day of the school year slipping by, the juniors can look forward to stepping up a rank and becoming the "mighty" seniors. Sophomores will no longer be looked upon as the "lower class" once they take their place as juniors. But what are the seniors looking forward to, and what are they thinking as these last days end more than just another year but their entire high school ca-

It's hard not to feel a little gladness, with summer ahead and no school work. For most seniors it's the beginning of an entirely new life and career. With thoughts of expectation Sharon Wilson expressed her feelings as, "A mixture of happiness and unhappiness, but I'm looking forward to next year." There are many no doubt whose feelings coincide with Rick Gilbert's, who, when asked about how he felt said; "Gee, I don't know." Some are literally bubbling over with enthusiasm, "I can hardly wait to graduate, " replied Barbi Beall. Then there are those who just don't feel much of anything, more like Joyce Athay who stated, "I guess I'm just unsentimental about leaving high sc-

But looking back seniors, aren't they three years you'd hate to give up? There's been lots of work and some not so good times, but there's also a lot of priceless memories that have taken place within Fort's walls and many friendships that never would have been without those three years. Some may feel a little awed as was Mary Pat Titzler, "It just doesn't seem possible that this is the last whole week of school, " she said. Audif some of you feel a little like Gloria Johnson, who replied, "I kind of hate to leave all these memories and fun," do not feel foolish, because when graduation exercises are taking = place and "Pomp and Circumstance"begins you won't be alone. Don't forget these years, but don't dote on them, there are new memories and friendships ahead.

SUPPORT

Associations Hold

Do you ever feel like a misfit, a non-conformist who can't even conform to the non-conformists? Well, stop worrying. Ya know, they say "it takes all kinds" and, believe it or not. it does. At least, the Encyclopedia of Associations does.

It classifies clubs and groups which take any and all personalities under their wings. If you have a complex because you have an unexplainable drive to collect buttons, forget it. Join the 1700 other eccentrics of the National Button Society. Or there is always the International Cigar Band Society. Of course, if you're really interested in this field, sign up with the Cigar Smokers of America. But so much for Sir Raleigh.

The American Pencil Collectors Society is thriving and, for the conscientious, the National Soc-Mah Jongg League or, if this won't do, the Society of Connoisseurs in Murder, provided he will attend meetings at Scotland

For the sports-minded individual a whole raft of associations should fit the bill. Now that the wind is up, the International Kite Fliers Association should be in full swing. Whether with ice or roller, the skater can find friends in the Skate Sailing Association of America (Don't ask what this is!). Perhaps some prefer not to engage in such invigorating activities, however. Especially teenagers refrain from differing from the traditions of recreational diversion. They could feel at home, though, amidst the members of the Cruissing Club of America, (Could it be that meetings are held Friday and Saturday nights and Sunda y afternoons on Main Street?)

Anyone who cannot find their niche in life among the interest are as of these clubs is bound to find another group he'll fit in.

If you have ever considered of working with handicapped children either professionally or as a rewarding experience, SPADES is the club for you.

SPADES is sponsored by the Kiwanis Club and helps the deaf, blind, physically handicapped and mentally retarded. Qub Members plan dances for these children, sit with them while their parents go out, helppaint and repair the camping area for the handicapped, help them learn to swim and visit hospitals and schools which deal with these children. Kiwanis also sponsors a summer camp which is counseled by high school students with some background in this area. This camp is located near Rhododendron, Oregon in foothills of Mt. Hood and allows students to volunteer from a week to two months to help the physically and mentally retarded. The programs sponsored by this club are not only helpful to the retarded and their families, but give the high school student the opportunity to gain experience in this area as a possible profession and as an opportunity to give a little of one's self to someone who needs it.

Although this club is not well known, it does accomplish a great deal and needs more people interested in this work. If anyone is interested in participating in this club please contact Kathy Butler. There is a great need for more interested students, for if more don't join the club may disband. It is a rewarding experience and all are encouraged to join.

Club Dons Togas For Roman Meal

Spending an evening reminiscing the days of old Rome were the members of Fort and Bay Latin Clubs May II, where the decor transformed the Hudson's Bay cafetorium into a banquet hall.

Acting as slaves for the occasion were students taking Latin from the Vancouver Junior High Schools. Mrs. Judy Byrd and Dr. Tom Donovan, advisers for Fort and Bay Latin Clubs, respectively, performed the duty of chaperones.

Guests were asked to wear togas for the evening's festivities and many brought pillows to sit on during the banquet. First on the list of activities was the banquet.

CAROLYN WILEN

As Latin-speaking students sat down to a meal consisting mainly of relishes, raisins, and apples; topped off by the main course of chicken and spaghetti the days of Rome were once more evident.

Fort Sophomore Janet Quimby performed the duties of mistress of ceremonies for the evening, and entertaining guests with a wrestling exhibition were Bay students Dave Glessing and Mike Bertogilo. Students of both clubs combined their talents to enact "A Play Within A Play," by William Shakespeare. Also performing at the banquet was Judi Dreier who sang "Edelweiss" and "Georgy Girl." Future plans include the installation of a car stereo, and a more powerful 352 cubic inch engine with a manual three speed close ratio transmission. Also the addition of American Mags will shortly be a replacement for the Radar Mags.

Honesty Above All Fine Cars. Too

The Fort baseball squad has won another three games. In the latest game, against Camas, the Trapper nine beat the Papermakers in a six to five game.

Junior outfielder John Schuster started the scoring with a three bag hit after one out. Schuster was hit in by Sophomore pitcher Vance Roley. Dan Stonehouse, junior, ended the second inning scoring with a two bag rap that brought Junior short stop Ken St. - Louis and Vance Roley across the plate.

Then, again in the fourth inning, the Trappers added two more runs when John Schuster (again) knocked out a single and was later brought in by Ron Rakoce, who, in turn, was brought across by Ken St. Louis' single.

In the fifth, sixth and seventh innings, Camas made an attempt to beat the Trappers' score that ended in a tie in the seventh, which lasted only half an inning. Senior Gary VanAllen broke the tie and gave Trapperland its final run with a single base rap. He was knocked home by John Schuster.

The Fort nine beat Evergreen in a four to three game May 5.

Golfers Place In District

Fort Vancouver golfers tied for eighth place in the district meet held at Ocean Shores May 13. The tie which was one of several among the 15 teams shooting for the district tournament came after placing the course of 18 holes. This is double the nine hole course used in regular meets.

Individual scores for the Trappers were, according to Trapper Coach Bergman, "about as expected." Junior Dave Camp produced the best Trapper score at 84 strokes. Following his was Junior Matt Zapp shooting 88. Seniors Bob Burton and Terry Cornelius shot 93 and 98 respectively.

Coach Lloyd Bergman commented that he was not disappointed in anyone's score. The team did well as they played on a tough course."

Top metalists at the championship meet were Gary Sates of Hudson's Bay, shooting 72, and Columbia River's Gary Saafeld, shooting 76.

Where I Stand...

By Randy Taylor

Have we had a successful year in sports? Think about it, have we had a winning football or basketball team? Have we excelled in all our sporting teams? Well, you can honestly say "no" to that question. But does that make an unsuccessful year? I don't think so. I think that if team goes to the trouble of practicing long hours after school and takes weekends off to go out and compete for themselves and their school, that makes a successful team. As all of out teams have sacrificed their time and effort for their school I would call them successful teams.

These aren't excuses for the failures of our teams because our teams haven't failed. We have done reasonably well in all our team efforts and we have many fine individual athletes. The individual athletes stuck up in our spring sports and the team efforts were at the beginning of this year. But no matter when the sport was, it was held up and pushed to victory or a close defeat by our seniors. If we had a football team taking the field or a baseball game starting, there would always be a bunch of seniors to lead their teams in to battle and provide the under-classmen an example to share when they are seniors.

This year's football team did not have the most impressive record in Fort's history, but we did not have the worst either. We did finish with more wins than losses. The record was five wins, three losses, and two ties, and the team won some big ones.

If our basketball team could have played and won in the middle of our season like they did at the beginning and end, we would have had a very impressive record. The record was good anyway, but the way they started and finished was great.

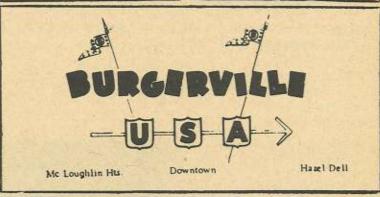

The basketball team had juniors all over it but the starters was usually seniors. At center were Tad Suckling; guards, Joe Zygar and Jack Francis; forwards, Ron Porterfield and Jim VanHoose. These are the seniors who helped win the ball games for themselves and their school.

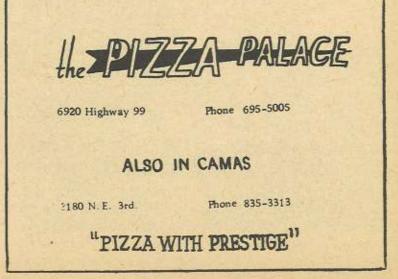

The track team has not lost a dual meet yet and has placed very favorably in all tri and invitational meets. This team has relatively few seniors in comparison to a lot of years, but the seniors on the team do a lot of scoring. John Slejeski, one of the captains on the team, has done a lot of scoring, and has the fastest time in the 440 of 52.0. Mike Powell has dominated the high hurdles all year and has one of the fastest times in Southwest Washington. In the low hurdles two seniors, Joe Zygar and Gary LeCount, have done very well this past season. Zygar also holds one of the best times in SWW. Lynn Olson and Gary Alanko have the prominence of having run more miles than most other runners Mr. Eagle has had. The best senior distance man is Warren Forest, who is one of the best mile times in SWW. Wayne Anderson's event is the Broad jump and although he has trouble with his scratches he has gone 21' 1" for the third best mark in SWW.

Mr. Westrick's team is relatively young, like most of our other teams. But there are still senior standouts. Behind the plate, Jim Van Hoose has been backing up the Trapper pitchers all season. He has been batting very well shown by his 440 league batting average. Ron Porterfield has been starting most of the year and has been doing a good job for the Trappers at bat. Cary VanAllen, George Smith, and Rick O'Connell have been starting relatively often and are all seniors.
